Legion Wet Vote Draws 'Drunkard' Cry From Drys

Action Combines With Hyde Move for Beer Data and Senator's Referendum Plan To Fan Flames of Controversy.

WILSON 'SURPRISED' BY 394 DRY VOTES

Young Soldier-Attorney From Little North Carolina Town Elected Legion Commander.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The "pro" and "cons" on the subject of prohibition were engaged last night in a battle of words which apparently was prompted by two developments:

(1) A vote for a referendum on the eighteenth amendment sounded by the American Legion to the accompaniment of shouts of "we want beer."

(2) Announcement of an inquiry by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde into the effect on the farmer of legal brewing.

The Legion was described by Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary, as "the wet side." He said "numbers of staggering drunks disgraced the uniform and yelled for beer." Dr. Wilson is general secretary of the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Replied to Dr. Wilson, the new national commander of the American Legion, Henry L. Stevens, Jr., said "the Legion did not take the wet side by calling for a referendum, but simply called for full expression of the opinion of the citizenry of the country. I have seen fewer drunks this convention than ever at any convention."

Like Walter Newton, secretary to the president, who recently obtained data on the subject, Dr. Wilson said his action had not been suggested by the White House and the results would be submitted to the president.

Referring to the ratio of more than two to one by which the Legion adopted its pronouncement on prohibition, Dr. Wilson said "the sentiment of the country and probably not of the Legion itself."

While a variety of comment came from other members of congress, Senator Bulkeley, Ohio democrat, announced he would seek to have the 1932 platform of his party include a plank pledging all democratic members of congress to vote for resubmission of the eighteenth amendment with the provision that states shall act on it through conventions.

Referring to the Legion vote, Bulkeley said:

"I am delighted. I am so glad they voted on that instead of beer."

LEGION ALIGNS SELF WITH MODIFICATIONISTS

DETROIT, Sept. 24.—(AP)—To the accompaniment of cries from the floor of "We want beer, we want beer," the American Legion today aligned itself with the forces seeking change in the prohibition laws, and asked congress to submit a referendum on the eighteenth amendment to the people of the various states.

At the same session the veterans' organization turned down a proposal

Complicity in Murder Laid to Carran Widow

Woman Grilled in Hotel at Bowdon—Coroner's Jury Recommends Her Arrest As Accessory.

A Campbell county coroner's jury early Thursday night laid the murder of C. M. Carran, of Jacksonville, to unknown persons and recommended that Mrs. Romie Carran, his widow, be held as an accessory or accomplice. Mystery surrounding whereabouts of Mrs. Carran, who has been grilling since 5 o'clock Tuesday morning, was cleared at the coroner's inquest when G. C. Bentley, Campbell chief of police, said that she was at a hotel in Bowdon with Sheriff Ed Creel and other officers.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict on Carran's death finding that the Jacksonville accountant came to "his death as the result of blows on the head by a blunt instrument in the hands of a person or persons unknown."

When the jury recommended that Mrs. Carran be held as an accessory, it was revealed that officers have been questioning her on the theory that she "put Carran on the spot" by driving him to the lonely spot where his body was found early Tuesday morning after she visited the scene Monday morning with another man.

Sheriff Creel, Mrs. Carran and other members of the party arrived at Fairburn at 7 o'clock and Mrs. Carran was lodged in the Campbell county jail on the recommendation of the coroner's jury. Sheriff Creel said that a representative of Branch & Howard, law firm, talked to her shortly after she arrived in Fairburn, the attorneys having been engaged by her relatives.

HOPKINS UPHOLDS AUGUSTA RATES

Public Service Commission Order Gets Approval of U. S. Master.

I. S. Hopkins, acting as master in federal litigation, Thursday upheld the Georgia state public service commission and declared a reduced rate for gas for consumers in Augusta, Ga., as ordered by the commission was not confiscatory.

The decision was given after taking testimony from the Georgia Public Utilities Company, formerly known as the Augusta Gas Light Company, and the litigants in a rate reduction case.

The master ruled that the Augusta properties of the gas company "appeared to be worth $1,000,000" and that the new rate proposed by the public service commission would produce $75,000 a year revenue, or 7.5 per cent return on the investment.

Hearing of the case by Hopkins was on order of three federal judges, Samuel Sibley, Alexander Akerman and E. Marvin Underwood when they granted an injunction against the public service commission from enforcing their rate reducing order until the facts could be reviewed in court.

Since 1922 the gas company had been furnishing gas to consumers in the Augusta district at the rate of $1.95 per 1,000 cubic feet for the first 10,000; $1.85 per 1,000 for the next 20,000; $1.70 per 1,000 for the next 20,000 and $1.60 per 1,000 for all over 80,000 cubic feet per month with a minimum charge of $1 a month for users of small quantities.

On an order dated February 25, 1930, the public service commission ordered the gas company to furnish gas at the following rates: $1.50 minimum per month, this sum to include 200 cubic feet of gas; $1.45 per 1,000 for the next 2,800 feet and $1.25 per 1,000 for all over 3,000 cubic feet monthly.

The gas company protested the rate

SHELTON CLEARED OF CHARGE LODGED BY EX-SECRETARY

Church Jury Exonerates Former Atlanta Professor in Trial Brought About by Woman.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Sept. 24.—(AP)—The Rev. Dr. William A. Shelton late today was acquitted by a trial committee of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, of charges involving his former secretary, Miss Carrie A. Williams. Dr. Shelton formerly was a professor at Emory University in Atlanta.

Voted "absolutely innocent" of the accusations in a unanimous verdict by a jury of 13 clergymen, the 56-year-old preacher-scholar immediately was reinstated as pastor of the Mount Vernon Place church in Washington.

The charge, which had been withheld by church officials pending the outcome of the proceedings, was disclosed by Dr. W. S. Hammond, of Martinsburg, W. Va., who officiated, as "moderator" and was based upon two specifications.

Hammond said the trial closed the matter so far as the Baltimore conference of the church was concerned.

Miss Williams, who had been present each of the three days of the secret trial, made no comment after the verdict as Shelton was greeted by his family and followers.

A statement attributed to Dr. Shelton, apologizing to Miss Williams, was offered as evidence. Dr. Hammond said it was made under "much duress" and had no weight whatever. Anonymous circulation of the statement excited Shelton's supporters.

Dr. W. J. Lambeth, who presided, Shelton as pastor of the Mount Vernon Place church, was the prosecution's star witness along with Miss Williams. He left Washington for his charge at Durham, N. C.

Shelton was embraced by his wife when he emerged from the trial room, where the committee closed the affair by singing hymns and praying.

Mrs. Shelton said she was confident he would be acquitted. The couple will celebrate their thirty-first wedding anniversary tomorrow.

The Sheltons left the trial to attend a prayer meeting in the church. Tomorrow night the trial will return to his 3,000 church members, and announce his nominations for a governing group for the next year.

MOBLEY RESIGNS STATE BANK POST

Ill Health Forces Retirement of Department Superintendent.

A. B. Mobley, superintendent of banks for the past four and one-half years, resigned that office Thursday and Governor Richard B. Russell Jr., complying with a special statute controlling appointments in this department, named W. J. Davis, assistant, as Mobley's successor until January 1, 1932.

Mobley's resignation was due to ill health. For a number of months he has been unable to be at his office regularly and in recent months he has not been able to visit the capital building at all. During his incapacity, Davis has been acting superintendent.

In announcing the appointment of Davis for the unexpired term, Governor Russell explained that the law provides that in case of death, resignation or other incapacity, the assistant shall be named until a new term begins. For the new term Governor Russell has named, and the senator has confirmed, R. E. Gormley, of Cuthbert.

Mobley is a resident of Monroe and was named to office by former Governor Thomas W. Russell.

Superintendent Davis had previous banking experience before becoming connected with the department as an examiner seven years ago. He is widely known over the state and is popular in banking circles.

GEORGIANS PLAN FRUIT EXPANSION

Frozen Food Leaders Discuss Industry's Development at Griffin Meet.

BY R. E. POWELL, Staff Correspondent.

GRiffin, Ga., Sept. 24.—Tentative plans for the expansion of Georgia's frozen fruit industry, confined last year largely to peaches, to other fruits and to sea food and the possibility of southward commercial operations in development of the new process were discussed here today at a called meeting of the Frozen Foods Association of America.

Representatives of outstanding national concerns interested in the manufacture of frozen fruit, agricultural workers and chemical engineers were included in a group of nearly 100 who gathered at the hotel here for the meeting. The group was held in the afternoon took part in demonstrating what has been done, in a small but scientific way, here at the state's experiment station.

Despite the fact that the annual appropriation from the legislature to this station has been cut almost in half, Dr. H. P. Stuckey, director, announced that the staff planned to "carry on" and especially so in view of the mounting commercial interest in freezing fruit and sea foods.

Last year Georgia manufactured more than 1,000,000 bushels of peaches and apples. Approximately 700,000 bushels of peaches were frozen at Montezuma and 200,000 at Monticello. Another 100,000 bushels of figs and grapes were consumed by the new process. Forty per cent of the total bushage manufactured, amounting to $300,000, was shipped out of Georgia.

Speakers before today's round table meeting, including W. R. Tucker, agricultural agent of the A. B. & C. railroad and a pioneer in the frozen fruit business, who stressed the big economy in shipment of frozen foods as contrasted with the transportation of the raw product.

In the movement of shrimp from Biloxi, Miss., to New York, the cost of shipping the fresh product is 9 to 12 cents per pound, which includes refrigeration, as compared with only 1 to 2 cents per pound for shipping the frozen shrimp. And the flavor, Tucker maintained, is improved by the process.

Another example he cited was that for the same carrying charges 30,000 pounds of frozen chicken can be shipped from Atlanta to New York

STIMSON APPEALS FOR PEACE IN EAST

China and Japan Urged To Bring End to Strife in Manchurian Area.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(UP)—Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson tonight sent identical notes to Japan and China again urging them to cease hostilities in Manchuria and to settle their dispute by peaceful means.

The notes will be delivered by the American envoys in Tokyo and Peking. Stimson said the American people and government viewed with "regret and concern" the recent fighting in China's eastern province. He said it was America's hope that "principles and methods of peace shall prevail."

Without citing either the Kellogg anti-war pact or the nine-power Pacific treaty, Stimson called attention to "the existence of treaties designed to regulate the adjustment of controversies between nations without resort to use of force."

The text of the notes follows: "The government and people of the United States have observed with regret and great concern events of the past few days in Manchuria."

"In view of the sincere desire of the people of this country that principles and methods of peace shall prevail in international relations and of the existence of treaties, to several of which the United States is a party, the provisions of which are intended to regulate the adjustment of controversies between nations without resort to use of force, the American government feels warranted in expressing to the Chinese and the Japanese governments its hope that they will cause their military forces to refrain from any further hostilities, will so dispose respectively of their armed forces as to satisfy the requirements of international law and international agreements, and will refrain from activities which may prejudice the attainment by amicable methods of an adjustment of their differences."

Signed Statement Made By Harry Kosnoffsky at Police Headquarters.

The police early this morning announced they had received from Harry Kosnoffsky, 21, years old, a signed statement confessing his alleged part in the plotting of a robbery of Benjamin J. Lichtenstein, wholesale grocer and sportsman, which the police declared resulted in the slaying of Big Ben early Tuesday morning in his Ponce de Leon avenue apartment.

In his statement Kosnoffsky goes into detail with his alleged dealings with S. H. Lee, alias "J. D." Crump and George Cox, regarding plans for the holdup of Lichtenstein by the plotters were alleged to have acquired "a big diamond" and "some liquor."

The youth, in his statement, alleges that Cox plotted the holdup and that he and Lee attempted to execute it Sunday night but did not make an effort when they saw persons entering the apartment occupied by Big Ben.

He "ran out" on Lee and Cox Monday, the youth says in his statement, adding that Cox told him they were getting someone else.

He adds that he met Cox and Lee Tuesday following the slaying of Lichtenstein and they told him to remain quiet about the whole business.

"The statement of Kosnoffsky practically clears up the whole business," Lieutenant Sturdivant said after it had been signed before Captain Arthur J. Holcomb, a notary public. "We have not yet definitely established whether Cox was at the apartment but that little detail will be cleared up, I am sure."

The statement of Kosnoffsky follows in full:

September 24, 1931, 10 P. M.

Statement of Harry Kosnoffsky regarding the murder of Bennie Lichtenstein:

"I met J. D. Lee in front of Thompson's at 9 o'clock Sunday night and he asked me if I wanted to hijack some liquor and I answered 'yes.' Lee then stated that it was in an apartment on Ponce de Leon avenue. Lee stated that the liquor belonged to a Jewish fellow and asked me if I minded that. I told him that I did not. We went out there about 10:30 p. m. We were traveling in a two-door Ford coach. I think it was a blue color. The car had a tire cover and fire tools on the floor in the rear. We parked the car in front of the house, which was west of the house that Lichtenstein lived in. Lee got out of the car to see if he could find

'TEXAS SALESMAN' WAS TRIGGER MAN, STURDIVANT SAYS

S. H. Lee, George Cox and Harry Kosnoffsky Are Held at Headquarters in Mystery Slaying of Well-Known Grocer.

Both men were booked at headquarters by Lieutenant T. O. Sturdivant and Detectives G. Neal Ellis and D. C. Cady on charges of suspicion.

Lee, also known as J. D. Comp, was the actual slayer, Lieutenant Sturdivant said. Cox, he added, is the man the police believe to have driven the death car away from Lichtenstein's Ponce de Leon avenue apartment after the slaying, and the detective lieutenant alleges the man believes to have formulated the plot to rob Lichtenstein, which resulted in murder when "Big Ben" attempted to fight off the hold-up.

Two other men were arrested. They are Harry Kosnoffsky, 21, years old, who gave his address as 91 Atlanta avenue, described by Sturdivant as a "key" witness, and W. L. Pierce, 20, 410 North avenue, found in company of Cox. Kosnoffsky was released. Kosnoffsky was booked on "suspicion."

Both Lee and Cox deny participation in the slaying, declaring they do not know each other.

The arrests came suddenly late Thursday afternoon after the detective working on the crime unexpectedly announced abandonment of their theory that Lichtenstein was killed by a man who resented his affections to a woman or that he met his death because of an underworld row.

Lee, who gave no address other than to say he was from Texas, was arrested at Forrest avenue and Courtland street shortly before 4 o'clock and locked up in the Fulton county jail. The police did not announce his arrest until after Cox had been taken into custody as he sat in his car in front of the Candler building on Pryor street.

Kosnoffsky was arrested in a downtown poolroom.

An automobile Lee is said to have borrowed the day before the slaying was slain is the strongest link in the chain of evidence against him, Sturdivant said.

"Our evidence tells us that the robbery of Lichtenstein was scheduled to have taken place Sunday night but that the bandits were frustrated when they found the door was locked. The police did not announce his arrest until after Cox had been taken into custody as he sat in his car in front of the Candler building on Pryor street."

FRATERNITY HONORS

MAYOR KEY AT DINER

Mayor James L. Key, member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity for 47 years, Thursday night was the guest of honor at a dinner given by the fraternity at its house, 1241 Clifton road. Roy Petty, vice president of the southern division, served as toastmaster.

Mayor Key, in a brief address, recalled his school days at Emory, and said that emphasis was laid by the fraternity on scholarship. He expressed confidence that this policy is being continued. The mayor graduated from Emory in 1888.

Oscar Tignor, adviser of the Beta Epsilon chapter, was one of the dinner guests. Edward Hill is president of the chapter. Several alumni and a few young lady friends of the members attended, in addition to the active members.

and sought an injunction restraining enforcement of the new order.

In granting the injunction, the three federal judges ordered the gas company to post bond for $20,000 and also ordered that in the event the lower gas rate was eventually to apply, the gas company must refund in cash or as credits on future bills, the difference between the old rate and the new rate from the time the new rate was first ordered.

Under the federal law covering the case, court officials said, both sides have 20 days in which to file exceptions to the master's ruling, and on the merits of the exceptions the federal judge hearing them may retain the master's ruling or throw out any or all of it.

From this decision both sides have the right of appeal to the supreme court.

MURDER PUZZLE LAID TO WIDOW

Son Schoolhouse-Doctor Cochran road. Deputy Sheriff C. P. McClure testified to finding the body of Carran after being summoned by a party of fox hunters who heard Mrs. Carran's cries. McClure said that Mrs. Carran admitted to him that she had made a trip over the same route the day before Carran's death, her companion a man by the name of "Bud" James, who told her that he lived at a downtown Atlanta hotel.

Chief Bentley testified that Mrs. Carran first said that her husband had accompanied her on the first trip to Campbell county, but later, on being confronted with an Atlanta map, she told Bentley that he saw Carran who told Bentley that he saw Carran in Atlanta during the time the trip was made, she admitted that the man with her was James.

Mrs. Carran told him that she had known James before her marriage, and that while driving through Atlanta she saw him on a corner and asked him to go with her on a search for her 10-year-old daughter by a previous marriage. Bentley said that a check of the hotel where she said James was registered revealed that no "James" had registered there with in the last month.

Bentley said that Mrs. Carran told him that Carran carried life insurance amounting to $1,000, and that she offered her bank book in verification of the story that the negroes robbed her of $200. The bank book revealed that she withdrew $300 from a savings account before she and Carran left Jacksonville on a vacation trip, Bentley said. Bentley also told the coroner's jury that Mrs. Carran said her husband was jealous of her.

The inquest was held in the farmyard of a country house where a handful of neighboring farmers, who had waited on a bench in front of a nearby general store for the hearing to begin, stood about the juryman, who were seated on chairs carried out of the house.

Eugene Tiller, Atlanta attorney, representing the law firm retained by relatives of Mrs. Carran, attended the inquest and questioned Bentley and McClure, the only witnesses.

Mrs. Carran had told officers that she and her husband were searching in Campbell county for her missing daughter, Helen, by a former marriage. Mrs. Carran, officers said, told them that her former husband, Lucius Gaddis, disappeared with the girl while he had custody of her on a court order, the court having granted each parent part-time custody.

The widow claimed that two negroes in a small touring car had forced the Carran machine, driven by her, to a stop, and that the negroes fatally beat her husband after robbing him of a large sum of money and taking $200 from her.

At Holsombeck's funeral parlors in Fairburn, it was said that no word has been received from relatives regarding funeral arrangements for Carran, although police officers have released the body for burial.

HARRISON TO HEAD BEREAN BIBLE CLASS

Congressman Homer C. Parker, of the first district, former adjutant general of the state of Georgia, was succeeded as president of the Berean Bible class of the West End Baptist Sunday school by Carter C. Harrison, vice president, at a meeting of the class Thursday night.

Mr. Parker, who was head of the state militia here for four years, was recently elected congressman and left for Statesboro, Ga., where he makes his home, Thursday night. He has opened offices in the Bank of Statesboro building. He expressed himself as being pleased over the election of Henry L. Stevens, from North Carolina, as head of the American Legion.

NEGRO AUTOIST SHOT
AFTER CARS COLLIDE

Raymond McDereef, negro, of 390 Ashby street, was carried to Grady hospital early Thursday morning. The automobile of McDereef and that of an unidentified negro collided at Boulevard and Irwin street. An argument developed, and a man said to be Jack Johnson, negro, of 201 Boulevard, N. E., entered the affair and shot and dangerously wounded McDereef. Johnson is being sought by police.

Feed the Hungry!

Put Some Item of Food in the

Box You Will Find in

Most of Rogers Stores

The Community Kitchen, on Nassau Street, is doing a noble, splendid work. It is feeding as best it can 1,000 to 1,200 hungry people every day—hundreds of them women and children. Their funds are scarce—their donations are limited—but a few good women and men are trying hard to keep the kitchen going. They NEED HELP—need it badly. They are deserving. They handle this kitchen economically—no waste, no big overhead, and practically no salaries. They don't let red tape stand as a bar to appeasing the hunger of men, women and little children. Can't you help—even a little?

Boxes to Hold Your Food

Donation

Have been installed in nearly all of Rogers Atlanta stores to make it convenient for you to help. Drop some small item in one of these boxes—a pound of coffee, a small sack of sugar, a package of rice, a few pounds of potatoes, a can or two of vegetables, a loaf or two of bread—or anything you desire to help this worthy cause. Every little helps—and MANY little helps will keep the kitchen doing its good work. Our store managers will help with suggestions, if you wish.

Our Superintendents will see that EVERY ITEM dropped into these boxes is promptly delivered to the Community Kitchen.

STEAMSHIP PASSENGER

DROWNS SELF IN OCEAN

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 24.—(P)—A radiogram received here today by the Proctor steamship line from their vessel, the S. S. Western Wave, said that H. P. Nash, a passenger aboard the ship, leaped to his death over the side of the Western Wave at 5:45 a. m. today. The radiogram was sent by Captain Nelson Proctor, of the vessel.

The steamship offices here said the Western Wave probably was in Sabine lake on the way to the Gulf of Mexico from Beaumont when the man went overboard.

CHINA FLOOD RELIEF

NANKING, China, Sept. 24.—(P)—With the bulk of their aerial surveys of Kiangsu province and western Anhwei province for the Chinese nation flood relief commission completed, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh today extended their volunteer flood relief program to include arrangements to carry doctors to isolated flood centers, where medical services are urgently needed.

Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh did not fly today, but spent the day conferring with the American consul general and engineers of the flood relief commission.

On the three survey flights completed with that of yesterday, Anne Lindbergh piloted the plane and her husband annotated maps of the flood area, giving the flood commission its first accurate knowledge of conditions in isolated parts of Kiangsu and Anhwei.

COTTON EXCHANGE

SETS BUYING RECORD

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 24.—(P)—A. J. Stone, secretary of the Dallas Cotton Exchange, announced that the exchange set a new record today for purchases of spot cotton when members bought 37,575 bales up to the closing of the market at 1 p. m.

Previous records were broken last Saturday, when purchases exceeded 34,000 bales.

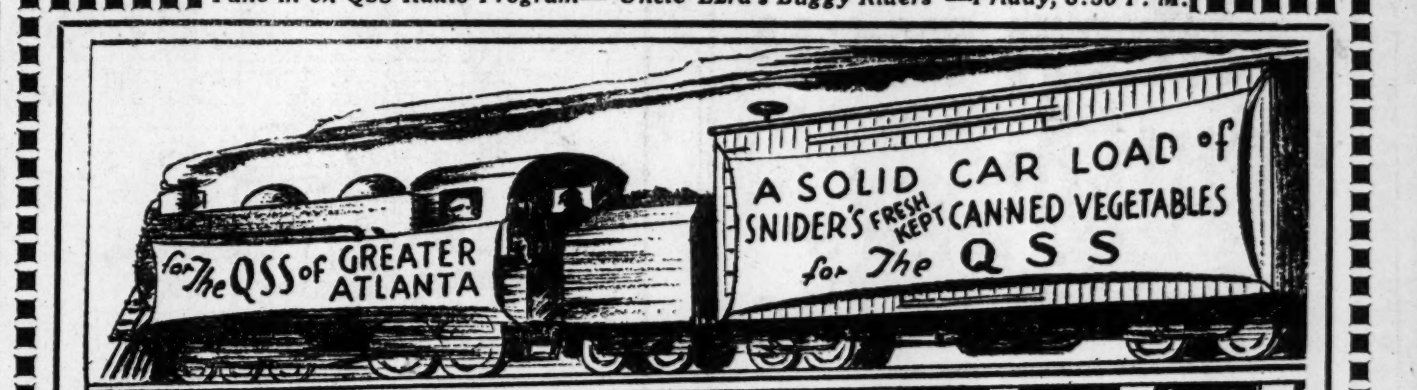

FILM STAR'S CONDITION

REPORTED IMPROVED

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 24.—(P)—Improvement was reported tonight in the condition of Jack Pickford, motion picture actor, brother of Mary Pickford, who is seriously ill at his home here.

Dr. Carl Lewis said Pickford had emerged from a coma but his condition remained critical.

UPON BREAD FLAVOR Depends the Success of Every Meal

. . . . says Miss Sawyer of the Constitution-Kelvinator Cooking School, held this week at Davison-Paxon Co.

That Is Why I Recommend Colonial Bread

Colonial buyers do not regard bread as a uniform commodity, like as peas in a pod. They not only know grades of bread when they taste them, but they appreciate that there are as many kinds and qualities of breads as of coffees. They know that upon bread flavor depends the success of every meal—three meals a day. And upon tempting flavor depends, too, whether children will eat as much of this healthful food as is needed for growing bodies.

MISS SAWYER

Colonial Bread

"IT'S TWISTED"

TWISTING---as Colonial Bakers do it is important---for it makes a better bread---better in flavor and in food value.

'Rube' Fiddlers, Seeking '31 Crown, Assemble Today at Auditorium

Country fiddlers from a dozen counties of the Georgia Old-Time Fiddlers' Association will assemble in Atlanta today for the eighteenth annual convention and the contest to determine the Georgia championship for the year.

Sessions will be held at the auditorium at 8 o'clock tonight and tomorrow night, with a 2 o'clock matinee tomorrow afternoon. Joe Collins, of Stockbridge, will defend his title as champion fiddler of Georgia against such noted fiddlers as John Carson, A. A. Gray, Earl Johnson and other former winners.

A contest among several country string bands is a novelty scheduled for this year. Among the entrants are the Bull Fiddle orchestra of Lindale; the Powder Springs String band, and the Jugtown orchestra of Atlanta. All will play old-fashioned dance music.

The annual fiddlers' convention usually attracts several thousand persons to the auditorium, many of them coming from neighboring counties to cheer for their favorite contestants.

SOUTHERN WOMAN HITS SHOUSE BEER PROPOSAL

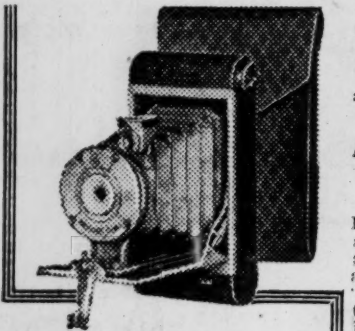

Mrs. Shaver Says All "Real Democrats" Believe Implicitly in Prohibition.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Beer, wine and repeal of the eighteenth amendment, in the opinion of Mrs. Clement L. Shaver, vice president of the National Women's Democratic Law Enforcement League, will not "be acceptable to southern democrats."

The wife of the former chairman of the democratic national committee said in a statement that J. M. Shouse, chairman of the democratic national executive committee, "miserably failed to catch the vision of the dry south when he proposed beer and wine and repeal of the eighteenth amendment as planks in the next democratic national platform."

Shouse several days ago gave his views of what should be embodied in the next democratic platform, including proposals for changes in prohibition. If Shouse should give the subject further study, Mrs. Shaver said, "he may come to the correct conclusion that beer and wine would actually reduce employment by diverting vast sums from the purchase of commodities requiring more labor than the production of liquor."

Mrs. Shaver said "real democrats" believe the people have registered their will against liquor and "will stand steadfastly by this decision."

Arkansas Cotton Growers "Impress" Unemployed

HELENA, Ark., Sept. 24.—(AP)—Truck loads of unemployed men left the city today for the cotton fields of Phillips county as authorities continued their drive to supply planters with cotton pickers.

At daybreak, trucks were stationed at strategic points to pick up the jobless, who had been warned by city and county officers that refusal to join the movement to the field would result in vagrancy arrests.

They encountered no resistance, however, and no arrests were made. Planters reported they were in need of still more pickers but authorities expressed the belief the demand would be supplied by tomorrow.

CUT IN WAGES TERMED DEPLORABLE BY DOAK

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 24.—(AP)—Secretary of Labor William N. Doak tonight characterized recent wage cuts by large steel companies and other concerns as "deplorable."

Declining to say whether he believes a general wage reduction is likely, Mr. Doak said he agrees with President Hoover's attitude that the present standard of wages should be maintained.

"It is deplorable," he said, referring to the specific wage cuts, "but apparently it could not be avoided." He struck an optimistic note in discussing unemployment. On the basis of surveys his department is making in key industries throughout the country, he declared, there has been a slight gain in employment.

The secretary was silent on the prohibition referendum resolution adopted today by the American Legion at Detroit, but he indicated he was pleased that the legionnaires rejected a resolution favoring immediate payment of bonus certificates at face value.

M'KELLAR-VANDENBERG TARIFF RIFT REOPENED
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 24.—(AP)—Reopening his tariff dispute with Senator Vandenberg, republican, Michigan, Senator J. D. McKellar tonight asked the necessity for the issuance of "calamity bonds" at Grand Rapids "if the Hoover-Grundy-Smoother-Hawley tariff act is doing so much for Michigan."

In a letter to Senator Vandenberg, the Tennessee democrat, enclosed a press clipping dealing with the recent issuance at Grand Rapids of $850,000 in "calamity bonds" for public construction under a Michigan court ruling that unemployment is a public calamity for which emergency loans may be made.

"It is almost inconceivable that after the passage of that tariff act, which had in your judgment done so much for the country, and especially for Michigan, that a city in your state would be issuing 'calamity' bonds for the aid of the unemployed," Senator McKellar wrote.

G. O. P. NEGRO LEADER HITS HOOVER'S POLICY
JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 24.—(AP)—Failure of President Hoover to recognize the republican organization in Mississippi, headed by Dr. S. D. Redmond, Jackson negro physician, was deplored in a resolution adopted here today by the executive committee of the Redmond faction.

Since Hoover's election a white group, under the leadership of Lamont Rowland, prominent south Mississippi lumberman, has been accorded administrative recognition.

"We deplore the attitude of the present administration in failing to recognize the regular republican organization in Mississippi, which has been in regular session for the past sixty odd years and has been recognized by every republican administration since the days of Abraham Lincoln," said the resolution. "We call upon every fair-minded republican organization throughout the country to use their influence and good offices to the end that justice be done in this matter and the best interests of the entire party conserved everywhere."

Contest of British Pound, French Franc Stirs Bankers

Great Britain Reported
Exerting Pressure on European Nations To Abandon Gold Standard.

BY RALPH HEINZEN.

PARIS, Sept. 24.—(UP)—A contest between the French gold franc and the British pound sterling for financial influence in European markets stirred the banking houses and the chancelleries of Paris today as a result of the British gold standard suspension.

Although there were few untoward manifestations of the conflict, prominent financial and diplomatic figures were in conference and the financial wires were over-crowded with messages to every European capital.

There were reports that Great Britain was believed to be exerting pressure on all sides to obtain abandonment of the gold standard by other nations. Such action was considered certain to embarrass France and the United States if it should be successful. In this connection, it was understood that Sweden had seriously considered following the lead of Britain in suspension of the gold standard, but later decided to remain on a gold basis at present, apparently due to the influence of French sources.

The possible shifts of financial power in Europe as a result of the present situation were the subject of much speculation, and there were predictions that France's loans to Poland, Roumania, Yugoslavia and Spain to stabilize their currencies on a gold basis would eventually place her in a dominant position.

The question of several smaller European nations abandoning the gold standard was laid to the fact that most of their foreign business is based on the pound sterling. Therefore they would be in a difficult position unless they follow Britain's example, because the pound has declined on the exchange.

STABILIZATION OF SILVER IS URGED BY BRITON

LONDON, Sept. 24.—(AP)—William Jennings Bryan's old free silver battle cry "sixteen to one," echoed today in a proposal by Sir Hugo Cunliffe-Owen, president of the Board of Trade, for increasing and stabilizing the price of silver.

Speaking at a luncheon as chairman of the British-American Tobacco Company, he asserted that quick action along this line is necessary if the world depression is to be eased. Asserting that silver has depreciated in value by 68 per cent and that it is the basis of value of three-fifths of the world's population, he declared that its price must be increased and stabilized or business cannot be revived. China, India and Mexico he mentioned particularly as depending on silver as a basis of value just as other countries depend upon gold.

CASH REGISTER HEADS HONORED IN ATLANTA

F. R. Patterson, president of the National Cash Register Co., and several executives of that company who were in Atlanta Thursday following a convention of the southeastern division of the company, which closed Wednesday night, were honored at a luncheon at the Capital City Club Thursday noon, given by Arthur Bird and South Allen, of the Rogers Stores, Incorporated.

Among the guests were O. C. Corbin, S. C. Allen, J. W. Dozier Jr., H. Angleton and W. A. Outten, all executives in the company from Dayton; Ewing Stumm, manager of the Atlanta branch, and a group of Atlanta businessmen, including James D. Robinson and Robert Maddox, of the First National bank; William V. Crowley, of the Fulton National bank; Robert H. Martin, of the Martin Cadillac Company; L. W. Robert, J. P. Allen and Eugene Spratt.

The convention, which was held at the local session at a banquet Wednesday night at the Biltmore hotel, was featured by a tone of optimism throughout, first struck by Mr. Patterson, and carried further by the various executives of the company, who expressed the belief that good business was on the way. More than 80 salesmen and sales agents were present.

Preaded by conventions at Atlantic City, Boston and New York, the Atlanta meeting was the last step before the group moves on to the western states, where similar conventions will be held until the entire territory of the company will have been covered.

$20,000 IN CHECKS FOUND ON PAIR

In an effort to trace the activities of two men held on suspicion of illegally being in possession of approximately $20,000 worth of travelers' checks, detectives late Thursday went to Lawrenceville, Ga., where it was reported such checks recently had been given.

The two suspects, who were arrested here late Wednesday, gave their names as H. H. Belevy, alias W. B. Fowler, of a downtown hotel, and Sam Blackwell, of a North Boulevard address. They were taken in custody by city police, who found them asleep in an automobile on Second avenue, near Fair street.

Ignoring their appeals to be allowed to proceed on their way and suspicious of their claims of being tourists, the patrolmen searched their car and found, they reported, a number of automobile license tags of various states. At police headquarters, it was said, a large quantity of travelers' checks was also found. Questioned as to their ownership, Belevy is said to have told officers he purchased the money in Kansas City for $400.

COLONEL BAILEY HEADS VETERANS

Colonel B. M. Bailey, regular army officer in charge of national guard affairs in the fourth corps area and commanding officer of the 12th field artillery regiment in France, was elected president of the newly formed Atlanta chapter of the Second Division Association at the first formal meeting held Wednesday night at the Piedmont hotel.

Preliminary arrangements were made for active participation by the chapter in various veterans activities, especially in the next Armistice Day ceremonies and also for a rally in Atlanta of southeastern veterans of the division.

Other officers elected at the meeting are T. E. Cornell, vice president; R. V. Bergen, secretary; J. H. Bush, treasurer; Denon Murray, sergeant-at-arms, and W. H. Thompson, Robert Wade and J. E. Dickerson, trustees.

Regular meeting of the chapter will be held at the Piedmont hotel on the first Wednesday of each month. All veterans of the Indian Head division are requested to send their names and addresses to the secretary, 310 Palmer building.

FARM DIVERSIFICATION IS URGED BY CONWELL

Diversification of Georgia farm crops was urged by E. Conwell, president of the Georgia Co-operative Cotton Association before the first fall meeting of the Atlanta chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants Thursday night, as the only salvation for the Georgia farmer.

Mr. Conwell spoke on "What is Wrong With Cotton?" from the standpoint of the producer.

He compared the production of cotton in this state with that of Texas, where one man working alone can raise 150 bales of cotton per year to the Georgia farmer's 10. "Until the Georgia farmer devotes his time to growing food and feedstuff, with cotton only as a sideline, then his condition will stay as it is," the president stated.

The federal farm board was praised by Mr. Conwell, who said that "panic among the farmers has been averted by the board" and "the board has not made a failure of its purpose."

He urged the farmer to become connected with co-operative associations, Conwell said that production must be put on a cheaper basis before farming, in competition with Texas, could be made profitable. This can only be done through better farming methods, he concluded.

The Atlanta chapter of Cost Accountants will hear addresses from the standpoint of the cotton manufacturer and the cotton broker at following meetings.

FLORIDA MERCHANT PASSES IN BARTOW

BARTOW, Fla., Sept. 24.—(AP)—J. Harry Tate, hardware merchant here and prominent in civic and unemployment relief activities here, died last night. Physicians said he had suffered from high blood pressure for some time.

Tate was a native of Virginia and came here from a family of Tampa. A widow and daughter survive.

TENNESSEE KILLING

LAI TO HI-JACKERS
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 24.—(AP)—An attempt to save a liquor cache from a raid by "hi-jackers" is believed by officers responsible for the fatal wounding of Pete Lenzi, 27, former roadhouse operator, on a farm near Memphis early today. Lenzi was shot to death when he went to the farm to investigate the appearance there of a strange truck. Sheriff's deputies said they were told 220 gallons of liquor were hidden in the cache. They found only 20 gallons but believe the remainder was taken off by the hi-jackers.

There is no substitute for S.S.S.

Secure S.S.S. from your own druggist... with few exceptions druggists are ethical and conscientious, and will not offer a substitute.

No medicine has the same formula as this time-tested Blood Tonic... not does any other concern gather the same roots with their own trained collectors and extract the active medicinal principles, unchanged, in their original fresh state—this is the secret of S.S.S. . . . there is no substitute.

S.S.S. restores the appetite and builds up the red-blood-cells

THOUSANDS of people have a low red-blood-cell count and don't recognize it.

Bodily vitality . . . the urge to be up and doing, depends upon the right number of red cells.

A low red-blood-cell count often exhibits itself in one or more of the following symptoms: — paleness, quick fatigue, lack of normal resistance to disease, pimples, boils, and general run-down condition.

A lagging appetite often leads to underweight and ill health in various manifestations.

Take S.S.S. as a tonic and notice how much better you will "feel" . . . it has effect in aiding Nature to build red-blood-cells and creating an appetite for food. These two things working together aid the human body in its struggle for health and vitality.

S.S.S. has been time tested for generations . . . millions of people approve its value . . . it makes for better health and happiness.

Why not start taking S.S.S. today? Seldom will a dealer offer a substitute—in such cases insist on S.S.S. the original . . . in two sizes, large and small, the larger size is more economical.

Not Too Late To Win Share Of $2,300 in Cash Prizes

Back Proverb Pictures and Valuable Publication Are Free; No Strings to Awards.

BY THE PROVERB CONTEST EDITOR.

To the accompaniment of plauditory encouragement and with the genuine fascination of proverbs and $2,300 in cash prizes forming the basis of its popularity, The Constitution's proverb contest is marching forward with the banner of success hoisted high.

Many readers started the contest at the beginning, while others, realizing that it is not too late, are getting "in the swim" now. Those who get a late start or who are just entering, will have the same opportunity of winning a handsome prize as those who clipped out the first picture and supplied the first answer on September 13.

For the benefit of those who have not entered the contest, but who contemplate going after the first prize of $1,000 or any of the other prizes, these words of explanation will be illuminating: The contest consists of a series of 80 pictures. The prizes will go to readers who find the largest number of correct proverb answers for the series. None of the pictures is to be turned in until November 1, when picture No. 80 will be published. No subscriptions are required to qualify for any of the prizes and those who are not subscribers to The Constitution are invited to take part. No strings are attached to any of the prizes.

BEG PARDON.

On Tuesday, September 22, proverb picture No. 10 was unintentionally left out of one or more state editions of The Constitution, although it appeared in all of the regular editions. A great many readers living outside of Atlanta have written or phoned the proverb editor calling attention to this oversight, and asking that picture No. 10 be printed again. For the convenience of these proverb fans picture No. 10 will be republished next Sunday, and a copy of it may be had free by calling at the office of The Constitution or by mail.

All back pictures of the proverb contest series are being saved at the office of The Constitution, where they may be had without cost by readers who have lost one or more pictures or who got a late start toward one of the many prizes. These free back pictures may also be ordered by mail, when two cents in postage is included with requests.

Contestants who have obtained a copy of the free reference list of 2,000 famous sayings have found that answers for the proverb pictures are being more easily found. This valuable list can be had free of cost or obligation by readers who call at the office of The Constitution, by mail for a two-cent stamp, or at these drug stores:

Priest Is Enthused About New Contest

REV. MICHAEL A. COTTER.

Recognizing the moral and inspirational, as well as the financial benefit to be derived by followers of The Constitution's proverb contest, leaders of all religious faiths in Atlanta have unhesitatingly endorsed this unusual feature. Rev. Michael A. Cotter, of Sacred Heart church, had this to say about the proverb contest, when interviewed by a reporter from The Constitution:

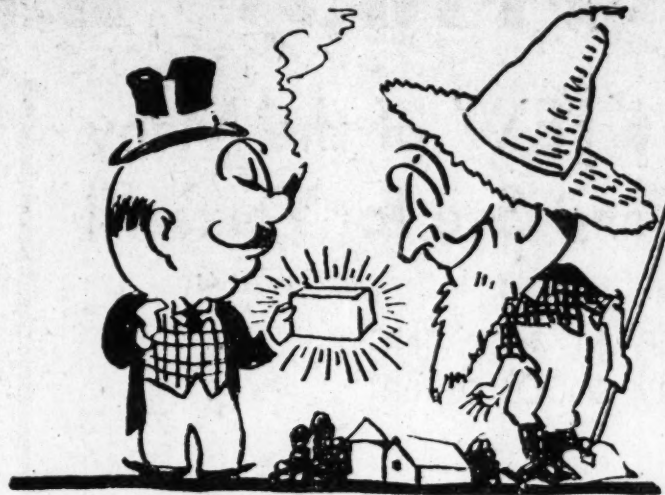

"Every nation has crystallized certain practical truths into crisp sayings. The experiences of men have filtered through the minds of both major and roadside philosophers until the residue common to humanity has been couched in proverbial sayings. "Therefore, The Constitution's proverb contest furnishes a rich field for profitable pastime about the family fireside and is a rewarding subject for daily table talk. It stimulates the mind, quickens the eye and clarifies the vision of life."

19 PERSONS KILLED IN MOSLEM RIOTING

SRINAGAR, India, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Nineteen persons were killed at Anantnag, near here, tonight when Moslem rioting broke out again after a lull earlier today and a mob attacked a picket.

The pickets responded with rifle fire, which accounted for the casualties, after 12 of their own number had been wounded.

$2,300 for Old Sayings

No. 13

The proverb answer is . . .

Name . . .

Street address, box or rural route number . . .

City . . .

State . . .

The correct answer for picture No. 13 may be recalled from memory and it can be found on the free and valuable list of 2,000 proverbs offered without obligation to readers of The Constitution. Don't let this picture "stump" you. If you can't remember the old saying that fits it, call at the office of The Constitution and obtain one of the lists. Or a copy of the list may be had by writing to the Proverb Editor, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga., and enclosing a two-cent stamp for return postage.

The total prize money to be awarded Proverb Contest entrants is $2,300. The first prize is $1,000; the second, $500; the third, $250; the fourth, $100, and the fifth, $50. The supplemental prizes consist of ten prizes of $25 each and fifteen prizes of $10 each. There is no charge to take part in the contest, and it is not necessary for contestants to register.

Culbertson Omits Self, Names Wife In World's 13 Best Bridge Players

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Take it from Ely Culbertson, bridge expert, the world's 13 best contract bridge players include his wife, but not himself.

Culbertson, author of a forcing system of bidding that bears his name, ranked his wife as the greatest woman contract bridge player in the world, not excluding Miss Eleanor Murdock, who won this year's women's championship.

At the same time as he nominated his hall of bridge fame, he announced he had won over to his system R. H. Richards, one of the leaders in the advisory council of bridge headquarters, an organization of experts who oppose the Culbertson method.

In presenting his resignation to the council, Richards said he was convinced the "continued acceptance" of the Culbertson system by a majority of contract bridge players was assured.

Richards has been an associate of Milton C. Work, one of the founders of the council, was co-author with Work and Walter F. Wyman of many bridge books, and was founder of the American Bridge League.

The 13 best bridge players named by Culbertson are: Harold S. Vanderbilt, Theodore Leiter, Baron Waldemar Von Zedtwitz, Howard Schenken, Walter Hienke, all of the United States; George Morris, of London; Sir Guy Donville of London; M. D'Albarran of Paris, M. Venizelos of Paris, Mrs. Ely Culbertson, Mrs. Emory Clement, Miss Eleanor Murdock, Mrs. Vivi Hansen.

"People who become known as lecturers on bridge are not always first rate players," he declared.

His income from lecturing on contract bridge is reputed to be $200.

Raw Cotton Diet Saving Girl Who Swallowed Nail

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 24.—(AP)—A diet of raw cotton disguised in spinach, the X-ray at the general hospital informed physicians today, is saving the life of 5-year-old Marvella Donovan, who swallowed a nail last Saturday.

She finished her fourth day of cotton diet and the latest pictures, attendants at the hospital said, show the cotton has encased the nail.

NORMAN TO OPEN LAW OFFICES HERE

R. C. Norman, tax commissioner of Georgia for five years, will open law offices November 1 in the William Oliver building. J. B. Keefer, who was head of the income tax department under Mr. Norman, will be associated with him here. Mr. Keefer is now connected with the tax department.

A native of Washington, Ga., Mr. Norman held the office of solicitor-general there for eight years. He has been practicing law for 25 years. The new firm will specialize in all forms of tax work.

CHURCHES ARE URGED TO HELP CHEST DRIVE

Appeal to churches and church members to enter actively and as leaders in Atlanta's work of human welfare and social service was made Thursday night by Roy LeCraw, president of the Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the speakers' bureau of the campaign next month for public support of the Community Chest, in a talk to members of the West End Presbyterian church.

"Social service activities need the churches, and the churches need the stimulus and accomplishments of participation in social service," said Mr. LeCraw. "Churches have allowed the administration of charity to pass from their hands, and thereby lost a great hold upon the world."

"I cannot remember a single group of workers representing a church or a church organization that has taken part in any Chest campaign in the past."

Mr. LeCraw announced plans for presenting the appeal of the Chest and relief committee by a corps of speakers to appear at every gathering in Atlanta until October 30.

Groups desiring speakers to outline the Chest's work and needs are asked to call Mrs. Askew at Walnut 4686 for assignment of a man or woman.

Miss Sawyer tells the advantages of KELVINATOR

In addressing the women attending the sessions of the cooking school being conducted in our sixth floor restaurant, Miss Marian Sawyer, director of the event, completely outlined the many advantages and qualifying points of superiority of the Kelvinator. Hear Miss Sawyer and you'll be able to choose electric refrigeration like an expert. You can go straight through single unimportant "features" to those essential advantages that mean lasting satisfaction. And be able to know why Kelvinator, the oldest domestic electric refrigeration, is recognized as the greatest value as well.

THREE ARE HELD IN MURDER PROBE

Monday night when the grocer was seen downtown a few minutes before he was killed.

Sturdivant said the owner of the automobile identified as the one used by the slayers had informed him that the car was loaned to Lee on Sunday and that it was returned to the owner's home on Hoke street at 2:30 Tuesday morning, about two hours after Lichtenstein was slain.

"This man, J. J. Peak, had admitted that Lee borrowed his small automobile and returned it shortly after the killing," the lieutenant said. "Lee left the Peak home at daylight Tuesday morning and we have been unable to trace his movements since. That is we had no trace of him until we encountered him this afternoon."

Sturdivant refused to give out any information as to how he, Ellis and Cody learned of Lee's whereabouts Thursday afternoon but from other sources it was definitely established that the alleged killer was "out on the spot" for the police, that is, a supposed friend lured him to the corner where the police were posted.

Lee made no statement other than to deny that he knew anything of the crime.

"I did not even know what I had been arrested for," he said to newspapermen a few hours after he had been locked up. "I thought something had happened in Birmingham."

Questioned about Birmingham, he refused to answer. He refused to pose for photographs and covered his face with his hands whenever photographer attempted to take pictures of him. Early Thursday night after Cox had been arrested he was removed to police headquarters and again questioned by Sturdivant, Ellis and Cody, but continued in his refusal to make a statement.

Cox Claims Alibi.

Cox claims an alibi. He told Sturdivant and his aides that he was at home with his wife from 5 o'clock Monday afternoon until Tuesday morning, except when the both of them took a short auto ride.

"I went out with my wife about 9 or 9:30 o'clock and we rode around town a bit," Cox said. "I saw Benny Lichtenstein as we drove past the Flatiron building and I waved to him. He waved back. Unless I'm mistaken, there was someone in his car with him then. He was driving up Peachtree and was turning into Luckie street."

Tracing Lichtenstein's movements in the hours before the killing, the police found that about 11 o'clock he had stopped in front of the Flatiron building and from there had driven to Louis' restaurant on Luckie street.

"After we passed Lichtenstein my wife and I drove on home, arriving there about 12 o'clock," Cox said. "We then retired. I did not even know Lichtenstein was dead until I came downtown the next day."

Kosnoffsky made no statement to the police immediately after his arrest but shortly before midnight informed Lieutenant Sturdivant that if he were permitted to see his brother and other members of his family he would "tell all he knew."

Sturdivant sent for the brother and early this morning Ellis and Cody took a written statement from the youth.

"I am convinced that Lee is the slayer of Lichtenstein," Lieutenant Sturdivant said. "About Cox, I am not so certain, but I do firmly believe that Cox planned the holdup which resulted in Lichtenstein's death. He admits having been to Big Ben's apartment for games and I believe that he furnished Lee with the name which gave him entree to Ben's apartment."

"Lee is the most enigmatic prisoner I have ever seen in my many years on the police force. He refuses to say anything. To me he appears cunning and educated, but I have not been able to learn anything about him."

Sturdivant said that all he learned was that Lee came to Atlanta about two weeks ago, posing as a salesman.

"Peak told us that he had offered Lee a job as a salesman, that Lee had accepted it but that he never had done any selling," Sturdivant said.

Cox is a well known figure in Atlanta poolrooms, some followers of the game saying that he is the best pool player in Atlanta. He also is said to be a "crazy" expert. He has no police record.

Lee is about 6 feet tall and weighs about 175 pounds. He is strikingly handsome and bears distinct likeness to Leo V. Brothers, convicted hired assassin of Alfred (Jake) Lingle, Chicago newspaperman. He was nattily dressed when arrested and looked more like a broker's clerk than a holdup man or a killer.

Lee carries himself well and acts resolutely before answering questions put to him.

He did not seem greatly disturbed by his arrest, showing excitement only when photographers attempted to take pictures of him. He absolutely refused to pose.

"I know my side of the law and you know yours," he told newspapermen. "I cannot let you take my picture and I cannot talk to you about this thing because I know nothing of it. My arrest is a surprise and a mystery to me."

During the hours he was locked up at the tower Lee slept and slept again at headquarters when the police finished questioning him there.

A large crowd gathered about the tower and police headquarters as soon as news of the arrests flashed over the city. Many in the crowds were friends of Lichtenstein desirous of getting a view of the man alleged to have killed him.

He was open to view only a few minutes, however, and only small portions of these crowds got a glimpse of him.

Burley Tobacco Station Planned for Tennessee

GREENVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 24.—(P)—Purchase of land for a burley tobacco experiment station, the only one of its kind in the United States, has been announced by C. B. Austin, president of the Austin Company.

The property, 185 acres in all, is located on the Lonesome Pine trail, 4 1/2 miles south of Greenville. Purchase was made possible through a $25,000 appropriation by the state legislature to establish a station here. The purchasing committee announced that about $1,000 was paid for the land.

Including a federal appropriation more than $15,000 is left for improvement of buildings and buying of equipment.

SCOTLAND YARD
CHIEF TO RESIGN*Lord Byng, Hero of Vimy
Ridge, To Retire After
"Cleaning Up" Force.

BY PHILIP H. MYRING.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—(P)—Viscount Byng of Vimy, commissioner of the metropolitan police, announced today he is retiring from his post at the end of the month.

The famous war-time general and former governor general of Canada became London's police chief in 1928 when he answered what the home secretary described as "a stern call to duty."

This call was to clean up London's police, as there was much popular agitation at the time because of the discovery that several constables had been receiving bribes from night club hostesses and other violators of the liquor restriction laws, and some others were suspected of turning blind eyes to illegal street betting.

General Byng's activities as police chief have been considerably hampered by his health. In 1929 he suffered a severe illness and went to South Africa to recuperate. Recently he was forced to spend some time in the south of France.

Despite troubles with ill health, the general is credited with having done a good job in setting the morale of London's famed bobbies even higher than it was before he took up his post.

Successive drives directly inspired by him were undertaken against the more dubious resorts of London's west end. Many of the places were closed and others told to mend their ways.

General Byng's name is not directly associated with any sensational crime cases, both because of his enforced absences and because such matters are connected more directly with the chief of the criminal investigation department.

General Julian Hedworth Byng, first viscount of Vimy, saw service on many fronts during the World War. He went to France as commander of the III cavalry division and was made commander of the cavalry corps in June, 1915. Two months later he was sent to the Dardanelles where he skillfully withdrew his army corps from the Suvla area, after which he was called back to the western front to take over the XVII army corps.

For a year he commanded the Canadian army corps which won a distinguished record on many occasions, notably at the capture of Vimy bridge. General Byng commemorated this battle when he chose his title after being elevated to a viscount.

Planes Will Aid Birds To Escape Winter's Cold

VIENNA, Sept. 24.—(P)—The Austrian Society for the Protection of Animals today chartered a number of airplanes to convey over the Alps to Italy thousands of swallows which are threatened by the snow, ice and hunger during the winter.

The society decided the birds could not cross the Alps without aid. They will be loaded into wooden cages and carried to Venice, where they will be set free.

ATLANTA, GA., SEPT. 25, 1931.

LEGION VS. LAWLESSNESS.

The American Legion representatives at the Detroit convention, speaking for more than a million veterans, yesterday overwhelmingly adopted a resolution appealing to congress to request the 48 states of the Union to submit to their voters referendum on the repeal or modification of the present prohibition laws.

The Legion convention contained delegates representing 10,000 organized posts in every state and may well be presumed to voice a nationwide sentiment of disfavor for the 18th amendment and the Volstead act, and for some practical modification of those laws in the interest of law, order, sobriety and the social safety of the country.

The Legion was well advised by competent authority that the congress has no power to order a national referendum on prohibition or any other issue. That was determined in congress over 70 years ago. But there is nothing in the constitution or in reason to deter congress, if it wishes, from asking the states to submit a question of supreme national concern to the voters in some regular or special state election. How far the states will respond to such request cannot be forecast.

As recited in the Legion resolution the conditions which have come upon the people by the adoption and efforts to enforce it in terms of the Volstead act have grown to be exasperating and intolerable to many millions of the people all over the land.

The American Bar Association, many state bar associations, the Wickersham commission, and countless other representative bodies have said so emphatically.

A dozen years of federal efforts, at the cost of more millions of money every year, to enforce a policy demonstrated to be unenforceable, against popular sentiment and practice, have brought the people face to face with the serious alternative of reconstructing the law to enforceable terms, or submitting to having it flouted in a manner that weakens respect for all law.

Defiance and violations of prohibition have succeeded in erecting in this country a super-government of rum-runners, bootleggers, racketeers and liquor banditti. They are organized into and are carrying on a lawless business equal to, if not greater than, any legitimate business of the nation. They have corrupted the social conscience by corrupting the forces of police and court protection. They have built up for us a criminal character and record above those of any other people under the sun.

Meanwhile our taxes have so mounted as to become an unbearable burden—to pay for the "noble experiment."

So the time has come for some decision by the people as to how much longer they will stand for their present enslavement to liquor and robbery by lawlessness. The American Legion does well to step out of the twilight zone of cowardice and hypocrisy and demand a showdown between the forces of law and order and the lawbreakers who appear to have the authorities of the land hog-tied in impotency or harnessed to the juggernaut of liquor lawlessness.

If the Legionnaires return home to push into action the prohibition referendum in their several states they may have served and saved their country in an even nobler way than they did by smothering the Hindenburg line!

A MARVELOUS SUCCESS.

No better tribute to the pulling power of The Constitution among women was ever evidenced than in the remarkable success of The Constitution-Kelvinator cooking school held for the past three days, and concluding today, in the big auditorium on the sixth floor of Davison-Paxon Company.

The program, as announced each morning in The Constitution, brought immediate response—so much so that when the doors were opened at 8:45 o'clock each morning throngs were waiting to enter. This vast hall seats 1,600 persons and in not one of the sessions of the interesting lectures by Miss Marian Sawyer was there a vacant seat. On the other hand, the aisles and the windows were crowded with interested listeners at each session by eager women who had read the story of the school in their morning Constitution and who had lost no time in attending.

Never since the Davison-Paxon Company was established here in Atlanta as the southern emporium of the great Macy firm of New York has this vast auditorium on the top floor of the building entertained as many people as during the session of this school.

This well-known firm co-operated in every way possible to the success of the school and the esteem in which it is held by the women of Atlanta was abundantly illustrated in their response.

Warehouse receipts will be accepted on deposit and purchases made will be charged against such receipts, the buyer being allowed 1 cent a pound above the market price of cotton in payment for goods bought.

These purchases will be entered on the warehouse receipt and the buyer will be entitled to the return of the receipt with unexpended balance, provided the full receipt is not consumed in purchase.

This is a gratifying evidence of confidence on the part of this old and well established Atlanta firm, and its example is well worthy of emulation by other business houses throughout the cotton belt.

Mr. Rich announces that his firm expects to pay $25,000 premium above the market price for cotton accepted in trade, but he believes the investment to be sound.

This follows the liberal action of this company a year ago, when it made advances on scrip to assure the teachers of Atlanta of their pay. This scrip was, of course, cashed at full value by the city, but it took a firm of unusual enterprise and liberal far-sight to make the advance.

On the same principle Mr. Rich believes that his firm will get back its money on its cotton proposal. At any rate, it is willing to take the chance, and its liberality will be appreciated by those who are thus given this opportunity of disposing of their cotton at a cent above the market.

Acute financial observers say the campaign to cancel the foreign debts due us is being framed behind the scenes. And it will do well to save its frame by staying behind the scenes.

Governor Roosevelt forced those republican legislators to come to heel on his unemployment relief policy. That sort of man in the White House would be the greatest curiosity of modern statesmanship.

It will be a mistake to think Ohio is spelled with naught at both ends. Anyhow, she is always hi in the middle.

Bishop Cannon says he didn't appropriate any of that campaign dough that was entrusted to him. Well, then, who did?

Mayor Cermak begged the American Legion to "come to Chicago." They are the sort of fighting catamounts he needs there to clean out the Caponeites.

Page the man who knows how to take the press out of this depression.

Ramsay MacDonald is the right man to teach the Britishers the wisdom of Scotch thrift.

Russia ought to have memory enough not to butt into anything Japan is putting over.

The president handed several mouthfuls to the American Legion which they will be wise to swallow.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PASSEN

Great Moments in History.

Few books have given me such pleasure of late as a little volume by Stefan Zweig, which I picked up in a book-stall in Morocco. Its title is "Five Historical Miniatures." I do not know whether it has been translated into English, but it ought to be. Zweig gives a masterful description of five incidents in world history, which, although they were by no means decisive of the destiny of mankind, yet are thought-compelling. Alone among the five incidents he cites: the Battle of Waterloo, changed the fate of the world. The others he mentions are: the Writing of the Elegy by Goethe; the Journey to the south pole of Sir Walter Scott; the Gold Rush to California in '49; and the frustrated execution of Dostoevsky. That south pole story is a masterpiece. We all know the picture of Scott going out into the deadly blizzard to get aid for his freezing companions and finally succumbing himself to the dreadful cold; how to the last minute when his faithful dog, which he had named, wrote down his experiences to his wife, a word he "hid" in the last minute of his life to "hide" from her. Zweig makes us feel more than ever that there is "a very gallant gentleman," a true representative of the British race.

Nowadays when Britain is going through one of the worst crises of its history, we are, perhaps, inclined to forget the sterling qualities of that singular race. The trouble is we look solely at little England. Two years ago, in the perspective of Britain grows in the measure one gets away from it. In the Mediterranean where I am traveling at present, the British is not diminished. English shiping is still supreme. Englishmen are still working the mineral deposits at Aden under the mercileless hand of One gains a better idea of British imperialism past and present at London, with its atmosphere of gloom. I remember sitting at a table in a restaurant and watching the ships go by through the Canal, huge lumbering hulks, full of cargo and people on their way to India and Bombay. Two years ago I accompanied a young officer, Captain W. C. Fowler, of the King's African Rifles in the borderland between Abyssinia and the Soudan. Abyssinian slave raiders had been busy carrying off entire village populations. Accompanied by 500 black soldiers we set out. We marched for a week and reached the camp of the Abyssinians. There must have been a thousand armed men in the camp. They were fierce, savage men, who feared nobody. Fowler calmly pitched his tent, put on a clean uniform and sent out his sergeant to the Abyssinian camp to tell the chief that he wanted to see him.

"Suppose he won't come," I said. "That would be bad," replied Fowler, "because in that case I would have to go and fetch him."

Now, fetching that boy from the midst of his followers, better-armed men than the British, was no easy task. Fowler sat under a gnarled cypress tree as the chief loitered. He never got up. He let the black man stand there and told him that he gave him a day to get ready and bring the captive slaves back to their village. The chief was at a loss to see that the order was carried out.

"Suppose," I said, "that the chief regrets his action and decides to attack the night."

"We'll be wiped out, that's all," said Fowler. And then he added leisurely as we filled our pipes: "But if we are wiped out, there will be another expedition after us. Maybe he can manage to wait that one out, too. But if he doesn't, if he kills me, the entire British fleet will sail down the Red sea. Depend upon it that boy would never get away with it."

Fowler wrote me that he is a major now. His order of promotion followed him around exactly a year after he caught up with him. Empire.

But that is not all. Englishmen are draining the swamps of Kenya and Tanganyika. Great cities have sprung up on the East African coast. In the islands of the Nile, the Englishmen who are constructing dams and waterpower generators, English planes war over the Sudan desert watching that King Ibn Shaud and his untrollable little Oueddis keep the peace. In Bagdad I witnessed another incident that convinced me of the fact that the quiet courage of the British is not diminished. It was a Moslem holy day. Men went about commemorating the death of Hussein and Hassan, who were slain in the inter-tribal wars, or the death of Mohammed. They walked through the streets, clutching themselves with swords and slashing their skins with knives. For it was said that whoever bleeds for Hussein, who ever suffers for Hassan, whoever thirsts like Hassan thirsted on the morning of battle, to him is reserved the best place in Paradise.

The smell of blood hung in the streets. Ominously the tom-tom beat and the shouts rose higher and higher. Suddenly word was passed through the city that the demonstrators were moving in the direction of the Shiite quarter. A Moslem sect, which is not considered orthodox. It was obvious that if the crowd ever reached the quarter there would be a wholesale slaughter. Thousands of men were in the highest state of excitement. They were insensible to pain. Heaven seemed very near to them. So they marched to bring death to their adversaries.

At that moment a lone British flying officer, calmly walked out to the Shiite quarter, which, as a visitor to Bagdad will remember, is reached through a small gate. The officer stood in that gate, armed with a yellow muffled walking stick. He stood there alone, and we could see him from the balcony of our hotel. The mob came up to him, dancing and shouting, threatening to sweep past him. He calmly went on smoking his pipe, and swinging his cane. When a huge mob tried to push past him he did not raise his cane, but shouted something at the mob. The mob froze in its tracks. I don't know what the magic word was, but it had the effect of turning back the whole mob.

Your Duty To Feed a Bird Begins When You Deny It a Fair Chance in the Open

By Robert Quillen

Much of the misunderstanding in this world is caused by taking things for granted instead of removing the lid to see what makes them tick.

There is, for example, the matter of government. Do you know what a government is? What is the theory back of it? What are its powers and where does it get them? What are its duties?

Well, a government isn't a natural phenomenon, nor is it a creation of Heaven. It is an organization effected by men for their mutual protection and convenience. That is all.

If all men would behave themselves, there would be no need of government. In Kansas there is a thriving, unincorporated village that has fared well for 50 years without a government of any kind.

Government is necessary because the strong prey on the weak and the evil violate the standards of decency.

The people of a community organize because there is strength in union, and when they are organized they agree on certain rules of conduct and hire somebody to see that the rules are enforced. That is a government, and that is the business of government.

Of course the thing becomes more complicated as the years pass. The men chosen to serve the people soon begin to feel important and assume authority. They think of themselves as rulers instead of servants. And since they must collect dues, or taxes, to pay their own wages and do necessary public work, they soon learn to abuse this power as they abuse all others.

They are grateful because the money they handle is not their own, and they use both their power and the public money to curry favor, because they wish to hold their jobs and it is human nature to be selfish.

Thus government is corrupted by graft, favoritism, venality and countless abuses of power; but still its mission remains to protect men from one another, to do public work, and to enforce the rules of decency.

That is all. Government is not Santa Claus. It never was intended to be a wet nurse or a guardian or a philanthropist.

It is not the business of government to take from one citizen and give to another, but only to see that both get a square deal.

A government owes nothing to any of its citizens unless it has made them poor and others rich by neglecting its duty or making unfair rules.

Government aid is excusable only as restitution.

HEALTH TALKS

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

ARSENIC, DEAD FINGERS AND HYPOSPHILITE.

Last November I told here about the peculiar association of Raynaud's affection ("dead fingers") with mild chronic arsenic poisoning, and the value of photographers' fixing agent—hypophosphite of soda—as a remedy for the arsenic poisoning and for the Raynaud's affection. This is not to imply that hypophosphite is a remedy for all cases of Raynaud's affection.

It would do no harm to try in any such case, but probably it will do good only when the trouble happens to be due to this particular cause.

In modern life many of us are exposed, both in occupation and in home life, to possible chronic arsenic poisoning. Arsenic is present in the dyes or colorings in some wall paper, artificial flowers, and fabrics. Arsenic is present in some sprays used to protect clothing against moths. It is, universally used in the insecticide sprays in greenhouses. Arsenic is much used in the preservation of hides, skins and furs, and handlers or wearers may be poisoned from such source, occasionally.

Familiar symptoms of mild chronic arsenic poisoning are obstinate or recurring eczema, red eyelids and puffiness of the eyes, frequent cough, a waxy hair, hoarseness, garlic odor of the sweat, and vague sensations of "pins and needles," or other odd sensations in particular areas, or perhaps even the symptoms known as "dead fingers" or Raynaud's disease.

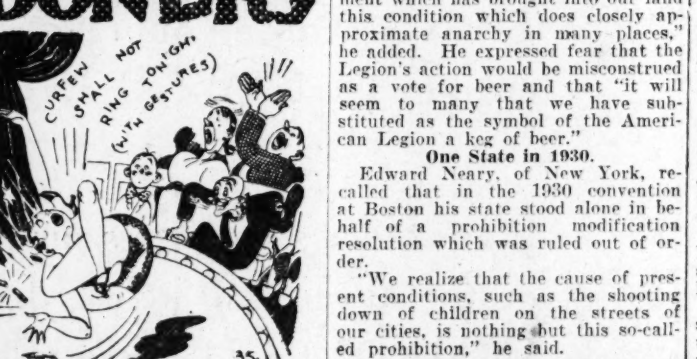

If on inventory you find yourself possessed of one or more of these symptoms, just send me a lock of your hair, and I will give you a test for it. I will tell you what you had better do about it. I don't mind telling you in advance—a lot of people thank me for this. If you will let me, I will let you do nothing of doing for you—you had better consult a physician. That makes three bucks you've saved by reading my column.

If the doctor thinks there is any ground at all to suspect your symptoms may be due to mild chronic arsenic poisoning, he will give you a test for it. You see, there is a certain normal quantity of arsenic excreted through the kidneys every day. If after the injection of one-half gram (about 15 grains) of sodium hypophosphite into a vein, the normal quantity of arsenic in the urine is considerably exceeded, that is proof of arsenic poisoning.

One of the very best methods of treating such chronic arsenic poisoning is a series of just such injections of sodium hypophosphite. I have no in exposure prevented, recovery is complete.

I wish to suggest particularly to persons with Raynaud's affection the advisability of considering this possible cause. Sorry I can't tell you where you have to go to a real doctor. Any one who prefers to gamble may, of course, take a dose or two of hypophosphite of soda internally every day for a week or two, and see what it will do. It will do no harm, at any rate. The dose to take internally, in half a glass of water, is from one-half to a level teaspoonful.

The vote by departments on the bonus resolution was as follows:

Against—Canada, Delaware, Florida, France, Georgia, Hawaii, Kansas, Idaho, 10 for, 10 against; Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Porto Rico, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia, Wyoming, Hawaii, Cuba; 103 for, 103 against.

For—District of Columbia, Arizona, Alaska, Alabama, Illinois, Oklahoma, Texas, Washington, Montana—9.

Not voted—Mexico.

ed argument of the financial side was made by Representative Wright Patman, of Texas.

In rejecting the bonus payment demand, 602 to 507, the Legion followed the advice given to it by President Hoover, who addressed the opening session; Brigadier General Frank T. Hines, director of the veterans' bureau, who presided over the session; and numerous Legion leaders, including Commander O'Neil, whose report indicated opposition to further demands for federal troops.

A resolution adopted unanimously by the convention requested that President Hoover revive the war-time military bonus, which was paid to the soldiers of the World War.

The majority report of the Legion's resolutions committee asking a referendum on prohibition was read to the convention by Dr. Neal D. Williams, of Missouri, committee chairman, amid wild cheering. A minority report asking that no action be taken on prohibition was presented by Lloyd Kain, of Lexington, Neb., and was met with a chorus of boos.

VIADUCT SIDEWALK TO OPEN SATURDAY

Pedestrians may rush in where motors may not tread Saturday when one sidewalk of the new Broad street viaduct will be opened. The entire bridge will be opened October 3, according to announcement made by city engineers, which will be two weeks ahead of schedule.

Chief of Construction Clarke Donaldson and Bridge Engineer C. E. Kauffman issued statements Thursday praising the work of the men on the job, saying that it was largely through their efforts that the structure was put up so quickly.

Through the efficiency of the contractors, Griffith Construction Company, the piers in the railroad yard were constructed in the shortest possible time. The removal of the old structure was accomplished without an accident in a very short time, which is in keeping with the excellent and swift manner in which all the rest of the work has been handled.

"We especially beg to express our appreciation to the property owners and tenants for their unselfish cooperation during the reconstruction of the bridge which enabled the city and the contractor to complete the bridge in such short time."

Hope Revived for Key-Tyler Truce As Pastor Offers Secret Proposal

Hope of bridging the breach between Mayor James L. Key, ousted teacher of the Grace Methodist church Sunday school Bible class, because of his anti-prohibition utterances, and the Rev. Robert Z. Tyler, pastor, was revived Thursday night as a special committee from the class elicited a counter proposal from the pastor.

Veiled in sworn secrecy, the new proposal will not be made public until after it is accepted or rejected by the mayor at a conference tonight at his home, Oliver Hancock, chairman of the committee, said. Every member of the committee was solemnly sworn to keep the secret and to divulge it to no one until it is submitted to Key.

Hancock expressed a hope that the controversy may be adjusted amicably and the threatened schism in the Sunday school and church averted.

The mayor Thursday spiked hopes of radical drays that he would submit to the attempted muzzling of his assertions outside church portals and not again attack anti-dry laws "anywhere," as William H. Metson, of San Francisco, attacked ministers for "lack of charity," quoting Alexander H. Stephens in a stinging exhortation.

The committee chairman said Tyler's counter proposal would not bridge Key's assertions outside the church, but would give no intimation as to what it is.

"We think would jeopardize the chance of mending the break between Mayor Key and Rev. Tyler if we divulged the counter-proposition at this time," Hancock said. "We took a solemn oath that we would discuss it with no one prior to the conference with Mr. Key Friday night. We will reach a definite decision and will know whether our efforts have been successful within the next 24 hours."

Key Thursday declined to surrender his right "to free speech" in order to mollify the discord within Grace church, when he wrote a letter to Judge W. A. Covington, author of Georgia's state prohibition act, declining to accede to a suggestion that he forego his constitutional rights in the interest of harmony and for the good of the whole church.

Tyler delivered an ultimatum to Key several days ago in which he told Key he must not attack dry laws "inside the church or anywhere else if you teach a class in Grace Sunday school." Key declined to agree, and Tyler asked him if he would quit. Key replied in the negative, and then Tyler told him he could teach no longer.

The brewing schism in the Sunday school and church neared the breaking point Thursday with every indication that definite action will be taken by Key's friends within the next 24 hours unless something is done. There is a possibility that many of his close associates will withdraw from both the church and the class despite Key's plea for "peace and harmony in church ranks."

Text of Metson's letter to The Constitution follows:

"I note that the Rev. Robert Z. Tyler is inclined to try to humiliate Mayor James L. Key.

"I hope he will hear up with that other good Georgian—Alexander H. Stephens—who said 'Preachers have less charity and magnanimity than any other class of men . . . If I am ever tried for anything, may Heaven deliver me from a jury of preachers!'

"They have their weaknesses and faults! and their most striking defect is a want of charity which they, above all men, should not only preach but practice. They are too impressed with the idea that they are God's vice regents here below, especially commissioned to deal out His wrath and vengeance."

"During the Civil War Johnny Forester (of the southern army) captured a Yankee chaplain. In a few days he returned the captive to the northern lines with a note, 'Here's your preacher. You keep him. I would rather fight him than feed him.'"

"Yours very respectfully,"
"WILLIAM H. METSON,"
San Francisco, September 18.

CLIMAX COMES TODAY FOR COOKING SCHOOL

The Constitution-Kelvinator cooking and refrigeration school, which has attracted thousands of women with overflow crowds at the big sixth floor restaurant of Davison-Paxon Company for the Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday sessions, will come to a close this morning.

Those in charge of the school say that the final session will be the climax of the entire course. Many of the feature events have been saved for this session and it is expected that the crowd will be the largest by far of any during the school.

Seating accommodations are provided for 1,800, but on account of the enormous crowds that have been attending it will be necessary to arrive early in order to obtain a seat.

The Peachtree street doors of the department store will open at 8:30 a. m. and the school will start at 8:45. Prior to the cooking and refrigeration demonstrations, which are conducted by Miss Marion Sawyer, a 15-minute fashion show will be staged under the direction of Martin Amorous Jr.

Merchants and business establishments co-operating with The Constitution and the Kelvinator Corporation are: Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, Pedigree Dairies, Lee Baking Company, Premier Vacuum Cleaner Company, Graybar Electric Company, Philco Radios, Kelvinator Corporation, Brooks-Shatterly Company, West End Tire & Battery Company, Miller Service, Inc., Maytag-Cole Company, Peerless Electric Company, Dorothy Gray cosmetics and Georgia Foods, Inc.

Cooking School To Be Featured At S. E. Fair

The gentle art of cooking will be demonstrated at the Southeastern Fair by no less authority than Mrs. S. R. Dull, well-known southern cooking expert, who for the third consecutive year will conduct a cooking school which will continue throughout the fair week, October 3 to 10.

At her school Mrs. Dull is going to demonstrate the preparation of many delicious dishes ranging from the simplest foods to the daintiest, including various kinds of breads, vegetables and meats, as well as pies, custards, frozen salads and all kinds of desserts.

Mrs. Dull's booth will be equipped with a gas range, refrigerator and tables. There will be two lessons daily, from 10:30 a. m. to 12 noon and from 3 to 4:30 o'clock each afternoon. These lessons will teach economy and efficiency, how to do the work easily, but well, how to "get through" and how to keep a good disposition.

The public is invited to attend all

No More Piles

Thousands Praise This Great Internal Remedy That Frees Them From Awful Pile Misery

If you think that the surgeon's knife is the only method of escape from the misery of piles, it's because you haven't heard of the new remedy known as Dr. Leonard's HEM-ROID.

Don't even think of an operation or waste time on external remedies until you have tried this quick acting, harmless internal medicine. It was Dr. J. S. Leonard who discovered that piles are internal, caused by blood congestion in the lower bowels. It was he who discovered the internal medicine—HEM-ROID—that quickly ends piles by stimulating the circulation, healing and restoring the weak, flabby, almost dead parts.

Now Dr. Leonard wants every sufferer from itching, bleeding or protruding piles to benefit by his discovery. So Jacobs' Drug Stores and good druggists everywhere are authorized to sell HEM-ROID with guarantee that it will positively end piles in any form or money back.

On that honorable basis, get HEM-ROID Tablets today and say to your piles, GOODBYE FOREVER—Ladr

Major Clark Howell, Jr.
Business Manager, The Atlanta Constitution
Atlanta, Georgia.

Dear Major,

Sorry you were unable to reach me over the phone Monday, but I was somewhere on the main floor, completely "snowed under" by the crowds that attended our sale. However, my secretary delivered your message, and I take much pleasure in telling you we "did it" again.

You, of course, know that merchandise values have dropped considerably during the past year, and in order to meet our last Anniversary sale figures, we had to make a great many more sales, which we did.

For instance: in our 1930 Anniversary sale we sold hosiery at $1 per pair. This year we made 69¢ our feature price. The result was a 50 percent increase in number of sales, taking the hosiery department "over the top" with a substantial increase in dollars as well. Last year we offered coats at $38; this year's low price was $33. The coat department set a new record by turning in a 33 1/3 percent increase in actual dollars. Rugs, fine rugs, are cheaper than they have ever been in our history. We had to sell a great many more in order to show the handsome gain we did in that department.

And so on down the line. Every department served capacity crowds. More sales were handled than on any previous day in our 49 years. This proves to us that there is a ready market for good merchandise, and that people have the money to spend when you offer them real value.

The Constitution cooperated splendidly, for which we wish to extend our appreciation. We know the result of our first day's business of our Anniversary sale was as gratifying to you as to ourselves.

Sincerely yours,

For the past three years the J. M. High Company, in announcing their anniversary sale, has used 12 page sections in The Atlanta Constitution. The first was a tremendous success---the second, even in the declining market of 1930, recorded a 12 per cent increase over the first record-breaking event---and now, this year, in the face of all the talk about conservative buying, we find High's "DID IT" again---surpassed the records of all previous years. Read Mr. Dorsen's letter:

The actual statistics of these anniversary sales at High's prove that Atlanta is a growing and ready market---a market with buying power and people who are willing to act when good merchandise is presented. But to reach them, MORE OF THEM than you can reach through the columns of any other newspaper in the Southeast, you must use The Atlanta Constitution!

LAMBERT RE-ELECTED BY LIVE STOCK BODY

Ton-Litter Contest Awards
Made as Moultrie Meeting Is Concluded.

MOULTRIE, Ga., Sept. 24.—(AP)—After re-electing officers, selecting Montgomery, Ala., as the next meeting place and voting to change its name to the Southeastern Live Stock Association, the Southern Live Stock Association this afternoon held the final session of its annual convention.

R. E. Lambert, Darlington, Ala., was re-elected president and W. F. Ward, Athens, Ga., secretary. The three vice presidents named are Walter F. Shesley, Gainesville, Fla.; John J. Cummings, Donaldsonville, La.; William H. Smith, Montgomery, Ala.

At the closing session the vote 75-12 decided that its immediate efforts will be directed largely to encouraging the development of the live stock industry in Georgia, Alabama and Florida, although it was made clear it will be glad to co-operate with other states in the southeast.

Awards in the ton-litter contest were made this afternoon also. First prize went to A. H. Jennings, of Americus, who with his litter of 11 pigs last year.

His litter of pigs, numbered 12, weighed a total of 3,523 pounds at the age of six months. The production cost was $4.24 cents a pound. His cash prize was $50.

Second prize went to Dr. J. A. Stewart, Porterdale, Ga. There he weighed 2,916 pounds. His litter of 11 pigs weighed 3,038 pounds. His cost per pound was 4.35 cents.

Third prize was won by R. E. Willis, Howard, Ga. His litter of pigs weighed 3,153 pounds, the per pound cost being 4.90 cents. Dewey Reynolds, Washington, Ga., received the fourth prize with his litter of 11 pigs weighing 2,916 pounds. His cost per pound was 4.63 cents.

G. F. Dryden, Hoboken, Ga., won sixth prize. His litter of 10 pigs weighed 2,440 pounds. The production cost was 5.55 cents a pound. The $100 cash prize offered to the county agent whose county finished the largest number of ton-litters competing went to J. K. Luck, Sumter county. That county had eight litters at the show here. This is the largest number ever entered by any county since the ton-litter contests have been put on in Georgia.

These contests have done much to stimulate interest in hog raising and in finishing swine for market in the shortest possible time, livestock men assert. The ton-litters on exhibit here this week averaged higher in weight than any that have been shown at any previous livestock show held in the state, it was said.

REGIONAL MEETING FIXED FOR TEACHERS

MACON, Ga., Sept. 24.—President Guy H. Wells, of the Georgia Education Association, announced that there will be six regional conventions held this fall in the state. The association will hold these meetings at Dalton, Wednesday, November 18; Canton, Thursday, November 19; Macon, Friday, November 20; Swainsboro, Wednesday, November 18; Tifton, Thursday, November 19; Columbus, Friday, November 20.

Speakers will include John J. Tiers, president of the University of Florida; Dr. P. P. Claxton, former national commissioner of education and now president of Austin Peay Teachers' College, Clarksville, Tenn.; Alexander C. B. Glenn, Birmingham, Ala.

Prominent public school and college officials of the state have accepted places in the program. Some of the leading members of the recent general assembly, prominent men and women, and editors will also be heard by the teachers of Georgia. The programs will be held in connection with American Education Week, November 8-14, and will be conducted under the auspices of the local school and college officials, local posts of the American Legion and the local organizations of the P. T. A. In previous years these regional conventions have had from 1,500 to 2,000 teachers in attendance at each place.

SUTLIVE TO ADDRESS WAYCROSS MEETING

WAYCROSS, Ga., Sept. 24.—W. G. Sutlive, managing editor of the Savannah Press, a past president of the Georgia Press Association, and a former member of the Georgia legislature, will address a joint meeting of the civic clubs of Waycross next Monday night at a luncheon session at the Hotel Ware, it is announced by Herbert Bradshaw, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

A series of four monthly joint meetings of the Chamber of Commerce, the Lions Club, the Kiwanis Club and the Rotary Club, has been outlined, for the purpose of discussing outstanding projects of civic interest, the clubs having agreed to the proposal of the Chamber of Commerce that all agencies in the city join hands in the promotion of matters that will tend to improve conditions and promote the public welfare.

Nationally-Known Representatives of Frozen Fruit Industry Attend Meeting in Griffin

At left, C. O. Western, Sebastian (Fla.) manufacturer, is demonstrating to Miss Edna Howard, of the Georgia experiment station, the latest wrinkle in frozen pompano. Increased Live Stock Production Advocated by Vereen at Moultrie

MOULTRIE, Ga., Sept. 24.—(AP)—The production of live stock as an important adjunct of the diversified farming program was recommended Thursday by W. C. Vereen, president of the Moultrie Banking Company, speaking before the Southern Live Stock Association here.

Graduation of the cattle fever tick and introduction of pure-bred sires, he said, laid the foundation for development of the beef and dairy cattle industries in the southeast.

Immunizing treatment of hogs solved the cholera problem and swine sanitation, he said, is solving the problem of producing the kind of pork the public wants at a profit. Previously, he explained, there was some prejudice against attempting a large scale development of the live stock industry in sub-tropical regions.

"As a banker," Vereen said, "my experience is that a loan on cattle or hogs that have been immunized against cholera is a safer loan than cotton under boll weevil conditions, and while president of the Georgia Bankers' Association I sent a letter to over 100 Georgia bankers and urged them to look with favor on live stock loans and thus assist their farmer clients to get away from the one-crop idea."

In promoting a mixed farm program in the Moultrie region, he said, live stock has been assigned a definite place.

The Moultrie Banking Company, he said, advertises that where a worthy farmer is supplied with pastures and feed, it will lend him money to acquire breeding stock. He said the company considered it safer to grow into the live stock production than to start it on too large a scale, however, and that clients to whom money was loaned also were required to keep a well-balanced crop production.

"If our farmers wish to get up a little earlier, work a little later, milk a few extra cows, or increase the farm poultry flock, or produce a few more beef cattle, we encourage them to this supplement farm income. We also think that every farmer should produce hogs as well as cattle because it has been demonstrated that home-grown frozen pork is in the market more advantageously through live stock," Vereen concluded.

FROZEN FRUIT GROUP PLANS EXPANSION

as would be required to ship 6,000 pounds of undressed fowl. The by-product, animal manure, in the freezing process is turned into fertilizer.

Chicken and shrimp have both been frozen at Savannah and Brunswick about 300,000 pounds of each having been processed during the last year in these two port cities. One of the reports current at the meeting today, which lacked official confirmation, is that extensive plans are being made to freeze sea food this year at both Brunswick and Savannah.

Technical problems of the frozen foods industry were discussed this morning by K. T. Holler, chief chemist of the experiment station, while the retail distribution of frozen foods was the subject handled by John K. Dayenport, representing Davison-Paxon, of Atlanta. Dr. Holler, an chem, home economist attached to the station, discussed "Needed Information to Educate Consumer-Acceptance of Frozen Foods."

Dr. Stuckey presided over the morning session and the round table this afternoon. At the latter, J. G. Woodroof, associate horticulturist, outlined further studies to be made in fruit freezing work here at the station with special reference to the influence of freezing on the cell structure. Shrimp freezing was detailed by E. H. Diemer, of Brunswick, while Henry Torrens, consulting engineer, of New York, discussed the refrigerating improvements that may be anticipated by those commercially interested.

Many of the visitors to the station today tasted frozen roast beef, served piping hot, for the first time. It was the piece of resistance of a luncheon which consisted of a fruit juice cocktail, frozen potato salad, mixed sandwiches, sweet milk and frozen Georgia Belle and Elberta peaches.

The association, of which Dr. Stuckey is the head and T. Taylor, Atlanta consulting engineer, is secretary, was formed last January. Included W. L. Dunlap, assistant district manager of the United States department of commerce, and W. T. Comer, of the Central Carbonic Laboratories, also of Atlanta.

BARBEE TO RECEIVE SENTENCE TODAY

HAWKINSVILLE, Ga., Sept. 24.—(AP)—James F. Barbee, 45, convicted in Pulaski superior court last night of the murder of Delmar Cannon, his son-in-law, last March, will be sentenced by Judge Echol Graham Friday when the present term of the court adjourns. He is being held in the Pulaski county jail here awaiting the sentence.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty, without recommending mercy, which carries the death penalty. The case was given the jury Tuesday afternoon and deliberations continued until 9 o'clock Wednesday night.

GEORGIANS RENAMED ON PECAN COMMITTEE

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 24.—(AP)—New Orleans was selected by the National Pecan Association as the 1932 convention city by delegates to this year's meeting which closed here Thursday.

Re-election of all officers featured the closing session. J. Hill Fullilove, of Shreveport, La., was re-named president; H. J. Simmons, of Jacksonville, Fla., first vice president; M. Hull, of Baton Rouge, La., second vice president, and J. Lloyd Abbott, of Spring Hill, Ala., secretary-treasurer.

J. M. Patterson Sr., of Putney, Ga.; C. S. Simmons, of Milledgeville, Fla.; J. A. Evans, of Arlington, and T. H. McMatton, of Athens, Ga., were re-elected to the executive committee. Experts on technical phases of the pecan industry were presented by Frank J. Williamson, of LaGrange, Texas; J. Y. Chadwick, of Glen Rose, Texas; C. H. Blackmon, of Gainesville, Fla.; Sumner C. Evans, of Dallas, Texas; M. Hull, of Louisiana State University, and other speakers.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts. Experts warn you not to eat or chew gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine. For they can't do that. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Brunswick Youth Swept Into Ocean, Struggles All Night To Keep Afloat

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Sept. 24.—(AP)—A story of an all-night struggle to keep afloat in the ocean after being swept from the beach at Sea Island by a strong undercurrent was related Thursday by C. C. Reese, 25-year-old Brunswick resident.

Reese, Robert Graves and two young women had been bathing in the surf. Reese went to the swings at the recreation center about 8 p. m. He fell from the top of a swing, knocking his breath out. He said he was too dazed to call for help, but managed to crawl to the beach, thinking the water would revive him. He was too weak to cry out or fight his way back.

He estimated the tide carried him out a mile and a half. During the night 10 or 15 patrol boats passed nearby, but his cries did not reach them. At daylight he sighted the shore about a mile away and started paddling for the beach.

Graves and a large party of friends and county police searched the vicinity of the beach throughout the night. Reese was found lying exhausted in about a foot of water at the edge of the surf.

AGRICULTURE COLLEGE ENROLLMENT GAINS

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 24.—The enrollment of students at the College of Agriculture is already ahead of the number enrolled at the same date last year, according to Dr. A. M. Soule, president.

"Our records of attendance show in a very gratifying way that the large majority of our student body comes from the open country and small towns and cities," stated Dr. Soule.

Victim of Amnesia Identified at Macon

MACON, Ga., Sept. 24.—(AP)—The apparent victim of amnesia discovered by police late Wednesday night wandering around the Terminal station, was identified Thursday by his brother, James Groves, Macon mill employee, as E. G. Groves, 35, salesman for a vacuum cleaner company of Marietta, Ga. The brothers returned to Marietta together this morning, but the salesman's memory had not returned before he left Macon.

4 VALDOSTANS SEIZED AFTER GUN BATTLE

MELBOURNE, Fla., Sept. 24.—(AP)—Two men and two women, who gave Valdosta, Ga., as their address, were arrested and lodged in the Melbourne jail today after a running gun fight with officers that followed a shooting affray on the streets here last night.

The men gave their names as Sam Staton and Jim Hall and the women as Mrs. R. H. Palmer and Jean Macon. They were captured near St. Cloud after exchanging shots with deputies.

Harry Ward, with whom the quartet engaged in an argument on the street here, was shot in the hip. Fleeing from the scene, their automobile, the four encountered Deputy J. L. Sikes, road patrolman, near here, and forced his car into a ditch. Sikes suffered a broken leg and two broken ribs in the accident.

King Boggs, police chief, said the quartet drove up to a curb here and started an argument with Ward, who summoned George Lotz, night patrolman. When Lotz arrived on the scene the two men and women drove away.

School Dedication. NAYLOR, Ga., Sept. 24.—Residents here will dedicate the new Naylor school building with appropriate exercises Friday.

DR. GEORGE M. EAKES TO BE BURIED TODAY

Body Will Be Brought to Decatur; Funeral Rites Held in Augusta.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Sept. 24.—Dr. George MacFarlane Eakes, one of the outstanding ministers of the North Georgia Methodist conference, who died at his home here Wednesday, will be buried in the Decatur cemetery Friday afternoon.

Funeral services for Dr. Eakes were conducted from the St. John's church here Thursday afternoon. The body will rest in state in the First Methodist church, in Decatur, from 11 o'clock until noon Friday.

Dr. Eakes was widely known throughout the entire conference as one of its leaders. Vigorous in his championship of principles he thought to be right, he made his presence impressively felt in the affairs of the church.

His ministry in Decatur was one of the highlights of his brilliant career as a churchman. For six years he was pastor of the Decatur Methodist church and entrenched himself firmly in the hearts of all his congregation and others with whom he came in contact. He left the Decatur charge in 1926 and since that time had been pastor of the Augusta church.

Miss Sawyer Praises GEORGIA BRO-LO at Cooking School sessions

As one of the outstanding authorities in the country on foodstuffs, Miss Sawyer, whose schools throughout the nation have attracted hundreds of thousands of women, is well qualified to judge the merits of any product. And at the session of her school in the Restaurant at the Davison-Paxon Company she highly indorsed Georgia Bro-Lo as the ideal foundation for any meal.

Georgia Bro-Lo—a Glorified Brunswick Stew—is actually far superior to the ordinary Brunswick Stew because it is not crammed with inexpensive fillers. It is made with lots of chicken, the finest of meats, the highest quality of corn and tomato products and condiments proportioned to a degree of perfection. Being prepared by a secret steaming process makes it the most delicious dish you have ever tasted. Serve it on toast—with spaghetti, and in many other ways. Recipe folder will be sent you on request.

DR CALDWELL'S way helps any Child's Bowels

OFTEN, this simple prescription brings the first natural, complete bowel action a child has had in weeks. And the entire system benefits from its gentle aid!

Feverishness, biliousness, headaches simply disappear when Syrup Pepsin is used. The bowels become regular and remain that way. Appetite becomes hearty; the digestion becomes more complete; energy and strength are restored.

Nothing you can give a bilious, half-sick, constipated child—or take yourself when your bowels need help—will do as much for you.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription for the bowels, written by a famous physician—one whose record of over 3500 birth cases without loss of one mother or baby is believed unique in American medical history.

No wonder Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is ideal for women and children. But it is equally effective for the bowels of robust men. Whether you're only occasionally constipated or chronically that way, it will cleanse, regulate your bowels, harmlessly and in a hurry. All druggists have the big bottles.

NATIONAL LEADERS SPLIT OVER WAGES

Official Comment Lacking at Washington But Views "Leak Out."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(AP)—The studied silence in official Washington on wage cuts fails to cloak the disagreement as to the wisdom or propriety of the move initiated by some corporations.

Whatever the view held, however, there is a uniform watch on in both federal and private organization ranks to trace developments on the shifting pay scene. The latest news of importance goes immediately to the executives directly interested.

Items having a bearing today included: The Pittsburgh Coal Company, among the largest bituminous producers of that district, slashed salaries ten per cent. Nothing was said of wages.

Prospect of trouble apparent in Milwaukee, where members of a hosiery workers' union threatened a walkout unless proposed wage reductions of between 20 and 45 per cent by the Phoenix and Holeproof companies are rescinded.

In New York, the Anaconda Copper Company revealed salaries had been cut up to 15 per cent as of July 1 and "wage adjustments" also have been made.

It is a quiet watch here, practically nothing having been said since the attack on the large steel corporations last night by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. That statement, in which the labor leader arraigned the wage-cutters as shortsighted and unethical, received a thorough study in all quarters concerned. There was no rejoinder to it, however, nor was it amplified.

The only word coming from the White House was that nothing would be said there. In his office, President Hoover kept in close touch with what went on.

There is an understanding among government officers that whatever is to be said will be said at the labor or commerce departments, which have to do with questions affecting the workingman and business. That has made other officials reticent, but one of them did take occasion today to criticize wage-slashing as a product of bad thinking.

While seeing it as a discouraging turn, he doubted small industries generally would emulate the big ones. Under the duress of depression, the little fellows were urged by him to have improved efficiency in many ways—and consequently to be able now to meet the big fellows on advantageous terms.

Senator Bailey, an Ohio democrat, commented he regretted seeing wages cut "but there is the possibility that it may be a step toward ending the depression."

"It may be a step we have to go

Man Ends Life by Shot After Failing 5 Times

GREAT BARRINGTON, Mass., Sept. 24.—(UP)—Gustave G. Mohr, general manager of the New Haven (Conn.) Surgical Company, pulled the trigger of his .38 caliber revolver five times today in a suicide attempt.

Each time the weapon missed fire. The sixth time it worked. His body was found slumped in his automobile. The hammer of the revolver had dented five cartridges without exploding them. Another cartridge was discharged.

Mohr had spent his last 9 cents last night to purchase a half-gallon of gasoline at a filling station here.

through economically," was another way he put it. He emphasized he was not advocating the lowering of a worker's pay, but pointed out in the past similar moves had been followed by a variety of prosperity.

Some government economists contend that industry made the cut only as a last step. There is no exact telling how radical will be the adjustments. One thing sure is that much will be heard in congress on the whole question.

As to that, Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, said today he doubted the seriousness of William Green's suggestion to reduce tariff protection on items important to wage-cutting steel concerns.

"While many of the rates on products of the steel companies are inexcusably high," Walsh said, "the shock to industry in general of putting them all on the free list would be so serious that I cannot think such a radical change could be proposed for legislation."

Walsh predicted that congress at its next session would not repeal anti-trust laws as proposed in some quarters to revive business.

The Montana senator said that provisions for regulation of prices must accompany any repeal of the anti-monopoly act.

200 ATLANTANS SEEK RESERVE COMMISSIONS

Approximately 200 Atlantans have enrolled in the evening school for reserve officers, according to an announcement from the organized reserve headquarters. The officers will meet at the military department of Georgia Tech twice monthly, the first class to be held on October 7.

There will be courses for candidates for reserve commission, lieutenants, captains and field officers, each course covering subjects required for advancement to higher commissioned grades. Similar schools, to be conducted under the supervision of the Atlanta office, will be established in Carrollton, Columbus, Dahlonega, Griffin and Rome.

UNDERGROUND POWER CABLE NOW IN USE

Power was turned into a new 10,000-volt underground cable line between Grady substation, on Cherokee avenue, and the state capitol Thursday. The new cable is a detail in the Georgia Power Company's program for reconstructing and enlarging its downtown distribution system so as to provide for future growth of the business area and to insure against interruption of service.

The line consists of three separate feeders, the first underground source of power to enter the city from the southwest. Construction of the cable line began March 23.

Miss Dunaway and Rev. Barnes Wed at Ceremony in Decatur

Mrs. H. R. Barnes, formerly Miss Mary Karlene Dunaway, whose marriage was solemnized yesterday in Decatur at the home of the bride's parents, Rev. C. M. Dunaway and Mrs. Dunaway, on Huron street.

Cordial social interest surrounds the marriage of Miss Mary Karlene Dunaway and Rev. H. R. Barnes, which took place at the home of the bride's parents, Rev. C. M. Dunaway and Mrs. Dunaway, on Huron street, in Decatur, yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the presence of the families and a few close friends.

The home was artistically decorated with flowers and unshaded tapers, and an improvised altar, formed of stately palms and ferns, was arranged at the end of the living room. The bride and bridegroom knelt on a stool draped with a hand-painted shawl belonging to the bride, upon which her college roommate knelt when she married last June.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Elizabeth Skeen rendered a piano solo, "A Rising Sun." "All for You" was sung by Mrs. Pitman Sutton, with violin obligato by Mrs. Joe Bunch. "I Love You Truly" was played during the ceremony.

The marriage ceremony was performed by the bride's father, Rev. Dunaway, the bride and bridegroom entering the living room to the strains of the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin." The bride was radiant in her wedding gown of white organdy trimmed with real lace. The full skirt had inserts of lace, and the tight-fitting bodice was finished with puff sleeves. A bandeau of orange blossoms was effectively arranged on the bride's golden hair, and she carried a bouquet of white roses and valley lilies, tied with white satin.

Mrs. Barnes is the second daughter of Rev. Charles M. Dunaway and Mrs. Dunaway, of Decatur, and received her high school education in Decatur. She graduated last June from Asbury College, in Wilmore, Ky. Mr. Barnes was reared in Minnesota, and is the son of Mrs. Jennie May Barnes and the late F. R. Barnes. He is a member of the Central New York conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, and attended Asbury College.

The bride and bridegroom, after a wedding trip through the east, will make their home in Syracuse, N. Y., where Mr. Barnes will hold a student pastorate and attend Syracuse University.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mrs. Jennie May Barnes, mother of the groom, Mrs. Vernon Robertson, sister of the bride, and Mr. Robertson, and their sons, and Roy Dunaway, brother of the bride, of Fort Myers, Fla.; Mrs. W. C. Hustis, of New York City, and Rev. C. B. Huff, of Columbus, Ga.

Two of this season's debutantes, Miss Ida Thomas and Miss Jane de Bruyn Kops, will be presented to Atlanta society at the elaborate party at which Mrs. Irving Thomas, mother of Miss Thomas, and Mr. and Mrs. Julian de Bruyn Kops, parents of Miss de Bruyn Kops, will entertain Friday, November 6, at the home of Miss Thomas' grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. King, on Peachtree street. These debuties have been intimate friends since their early school days at Washington Seminary and Miss Thomas completed her education at Mary Baldwin school, near Baltimore, Md., while Miss de Bruyn Kops attended Hollins College, Hollins, Va. Following her formal presentation to Atlanta society Miss Thomas will go to Miami, Fla., where she will visit her sister, Mrs. Kenneth Keyes, and will join the debutante cotillion of that city. Mrs. Keyes will give a dinner-dance at the Coral Gables Country Club, marking the formal presentation to society of her sister, Miss Thomas, who will remain in Miami two months.

Miss Kops is visiting Miss Martha Ellis in Macon, Ga., where they will be among the belles attending the opening dances at Mercer College, being given this week-end. Miss Ellis will arrive in Atlanta to visit Miss Kops and attend a series of parties this fall, and to attend the formal presentation of Miss Kops and Miss Thomas.

Henderson Hallman and Ernest Henderson, prominent in the social, cultural, civic and religious life of the city.

Mr. Hallman is a devout member of the First Baptist church, was one of the founders of the Atlanta Title and Trust Company, and is the oldest living director of the Georgia Railway and Power Company. He is healthy, wealthy and wise, and goes about his daily activities with enthusiasm and interest. He holds the remarkable record of never having missed a directors' meeting of the Georgia Railway and Power Company. A son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Hallman, he was named for the South Carolina statesman, John C. Calhoun, who was his cousin. Mr. Hallman will receive congratulations from a large circle of relatives and friends on his natal day, as this foremost Atlanta citizen is universally beloved.

Those assisting Mrs. Clanton will be Mrs. Douglas Kersh, Mrs. W. R. Bentley and Mrs. H. H. Ware Jr. An interesting program of games, and a fish pond have been arranged, and colored balloons, balls and toys will be given as souvenirs.

All the alumnae who have not been notified because of changes in telephone numbers and addresses are requested to communicate with Mrs. Clanton at Deachorn 3651.

Atlanta U. D. C. Elects Delegates And Alternates for Dublin Convention

Mesdames Charles Love, James A. Erwin, Marshall Holsenbeck and Lawrence McCord were elected delegates from Atlanta chapter, U. D. C., to the convention of Georgia division, U. D. C., to be held in Dublin in October. The alternates are Mesdames C. H. Ashford, Slaughter Linthicum, W. E. Beckham, Frank Davenport, Eugene Smith, J. N. Bateman, Alva D. Kiser and Arthur Allen. Mrs. William J. Poole, chairman of the board, made the announcement at the meeting held Tuesday at the chapter house on Juniper street. The president, Mrs. Watson D. White, presided, and treasured portraits, flags and relics formed an interesting setting for the meeting.

Mrs. Frances Brown Chase, chairman for Stratford Memorial Association of the chapter, introduced the state president, Mrs. J. J. Harris, of Sandersville, who made an address of unusual charm and interest. Mrs. W. E. Beckham, chairman of patriotic days, presented Mrs. C. J. Sheehan, who paid glowing tribute to Admiral Semmes, whose birthday is commemorated as one of the leading heroes of the Confederacy.

Exquisite musical selections were rendered by Mrs. C. J. Warner, accompanied by Mrs. Cecil Stockard. Certificates of membership were presented to Mesdames Willie Hunt Dozier Smith, Annie Heywood Wood and Beunetta McKinnon Fleming. Twenty-two rare relics have been given to the museum of the chapter through the curator, Mrs. John A. Perdue, and 30 books have been added to the library through Mrs. J. N. Bateman, librarian.

Summer activities were reported by the officers, Mrs. William J. Poole, Mrs. Forrest Kibler, Mrs. T. J. Ripley, Miss Annie Laura Hill, Mrs. Henry J. Baker, Mrs. Moreland Speer, Mrs. Marshall Holsenbeck, Mrs. Alva D. Kiser, Mrs. Charles M. Love, Mrs. C. H. Ashford. Report of the historian, Mrs. Harvie Jordan, were replete with interest telling of the early history of Atlanta, and the evacuation of the city, which took place September 1, 1864.

Mrs. A. P. Phillips, chairman for grounds and hostess for the called meeting and silver tea at which Mrs. Moreland Speer was announced as candidate for auditor of the Georgia division, made a report of the tea. Mrs. Speer has received cordial expressions of appreciation of her work, and endorsements from many of the Georgia chapters. Mrs. J. B. Phillips announced a dancing program for hospital No. 48, sponsored by the Solomonoff Dancing school. Major Dozier, beloved Confederate veteran, was presented and introduced by Mrs. A. O. Woodward. A reception honoring Mrs. Harris followed and Mesdames Charles Love and Howard Ashburne served punch.

Miss Gardner Gunby To Join Atlanta Debutante Ranks

A charming acquisition to the season's debutante ranks is Miss Gardner Gunby, attractive young daughter of Mrs. E. R. Gunby, of New York, who arrives with her mother and her sister, Miss Rosalie Gunby, Friday, October 2, for permanent residence in the city.

Miss Gunby formerly lived in Atlanta and has many friends who will be interested to know of her arrival and her addition to the Debutante Club.

Miss Gunby received her education at the fashionable Rosemary Hall in Greenwich, Conn., and Finch school in New York city. Since her graduation from the latter she has studied designing as an interesting diversion.

Miss Rosalie Gunby will be remembered as a member of the 1928-1929 Debutante Club.

Rich's Annual Store-Wide HARVEST SALE

With this announcement is coupled an offer of vast interest to the entire South: namely that from the moment the doors open on this Sale

Rich's Will Accept Cotton at 1 Cent Above the Market Price In Payment for Merchandise

WE accept warehouse receipts (with weight, grade and staple inserted) (all charges paid to date) issued by the Southeastern Compress Co., corner Glenn and Murphey Ave., Atlanta, Ga., in payment for merchandise bought on or after Sept. 26, 1931. And, remember, at one cent a pound advance over the market price in unlimited quantities up to 5,000 bales.

In keeping with the traditions of Rich's, a Southern Institution for 64 years, it is now more than fitting that this great organization which has grown up and prospered with the South should share in lightening a little the burden of growers and owners of cotton by its conversion into much needed merchandise.

The Harvest Sale of 1931 offers the most remarkable values ever assembled in Atlanta---highest in quality, authentic in style, perfect in every respect---a million dollars' worth of the things you want and need most, and---at such prices! Quality for quality, not only the lowest in Atlanta today, but the lowest in 20 years!!

Come Early Saturday

You will be, as we are, proud of this great assemblage of merchandise, for this, the most memorable of all Rich's Harvest Sales

STYLES BY ANNETTE

CHIC FOR HEAVIER MATRON FIGURE.

It has various points that have been well thought out. For instance, take the tapering movement of the hipline. It gives a charming length to the figure, and emphasizes the "smooth fit" of the hips. The becoming open V-neckline rolled in reverse is slimming. It may be worn without the tiny vest if desired. The short sleeves too are a comfortable length with shaped cuffs that give the arms a slim appearance.

Printed silk crepe is a lovely medium with the contrast in blending plain crepe.

The bodice cuts in one until it joins the skirt. Just a few seams to be joined.

Style No. 215 may be had in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3 yards of 35-inch material with 7-8 yard of 35-inch contrasting.

Shantung, linen and printed voile also smart. Price of pattern 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin carefully. Address orders to Annette Fashion Department, care The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:—

I am a failure as a businessman. I have worked hard all my life and nothing I have done has succeeded. I have loved three women and have never told anyone of them about my feelings because I felt I had no right to ask a woman to marry me when I knew I couldn't support her. Now I have had a piece of good luck, or bad luck, whichever it is: I have met a girl of twenty who is an orphan and who has a sizeable fortune. I love her. I must say I would love her if she were poor. The question that worries me is this: Would she despise me if I confessed the truth to her? Would she hate me for being a failure? I am afraid to tell her what a failure I have made and afraid to marry her under false pretenses. I am sure she loves me and would marry me if I asked her. What ought I to do? RACHELOR.

much or better, than they do money.

The very timidity that makes you silent about your love makes you ineffective in business. The earmarks are written plainly over your letter. Self-assurance, willingness to take a chance, the thing that we call "drive," are business assets but some of the most lovable of men lack these qualities altogether. Must a man starve for love because he is not a howling business success? Must a man deny himself the legitimate pleasure of a wife and children, of a home, because he is not wealthy? I think not. There are many women who will gladly assume part of the financial upkeep of a marriage when they have to work to do it. Certainly a woman who hasn't the necessity for working would be willing to do that if she loved the man.

Don't make a doormat of yourself. Don't be too self-abnegative. Don't humble yourself to the point that you lose your self-respect. Count up your assets. You have them. A loving heart, an honorable intention, a willingness to do the best of which you are capable, are more to be desired than great riches. Tell the girl that she may have to support herself if she marries you. Tell her frankly that you like her but you cannot give her the things that she has been accustomed to buying for herself. But tell her, too, that you love her and want to marry her and you will see that she, if she loves you, will gladly assume the obligation of her own support.

I like your attitude, your unwillingness to ask a sacrifice of a woman you love. I like your frank acknowledgment that you have tried and failed. She will like it too, provided she loves you as you think she does. She will overlook all the failures and the shortcomings. A sizeable fortune cannot buy anything more worth while than a good husband. Nobody knows this any better than an orphan.

Making the Declarer Guess.

The elimination play, that is playing out all the cards of one or more suits from the hands of the Declarer and the Dummy, is recognized by expert players as a satisfactory means of avoiding unnecessary and frequent loss of finesse. The plan of taking the guess out of the game and when available frequently assures the making of a contract otherwise doomed to defeat.

Whenever there is a choice between taking a finesse and eliminating suits in both the closed and exposed hands so that a finesse will be unnecessary if a chosen opponent can be placed in the lead, it is, of course, the correct play.

A finesse, which is an attempt to take a trick with a card not the highest of the suit, has at best an even chance to win that is, if you hold in your hand the Ace and Queen of the suit and lead from the Dummy a small card and Second Hand plays a small card, if you play the Queen the play is known as a finesse. It will win the trick whenever the King is in your right; it will lose it when the King is in the left.

Many players just getting their Contract wings assume that the marking of a good player is the taking of a finesse. Actually the strong player avoids them whenever possible. In the hand today, the Declarer sought to avoid the taking of a finesse. However, the defense was so alert that he was finally compelled to depend upon that uncertain chance to make his contract. The hand was played in a recent Duplicate tournament in New York, in which some of the leading players participated.

Miss Garrett and E. A. Pound Are Wed At Church Ceremony in New York City

COLUMBUS, Ga., Sept. 24.—The marriage of Miss Nancy Garrett, daughter of Mrs. Casswell William Garrett, of Montgomery, Ala., and Edwin Aldine Pound, of Columbus, was solemnized Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Little Church Around the Corner in New York City. Dr. A. Lyons Johns performed the ring ceremony in the presence of an assembly of friends.

Miss Jane Reynolds, of New York, was maid of honor, and wore a gown of cream-colored lace with hat and accessories to match, and her flowers were pink roses.

The bride entered with Harry S. Brown, who gave her in marriage and was met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, Robert L. Patterson Jr., of Athens. The bride was lovely in a gown of cyprus green transparent velvet trimmed in ermine, with which she wore a Paton hat of the same material. Bronze slippers and long, egg-shell-colored gloves completed her costume. Her flowers were a shoulder spray of orchids and valley lilies.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown entertained with a reception at their home on East 67th street. Mrs. Pound is the youngest daughter of Mrs. Casswell William Garrett, and the late Mr. Garrett, of Montgomery, and is a member of a distinguished southern family. She has traveled extensively and for the past winter made her home in Columbus with her sister, Mrs. Murphy Pound, where she was a popular member of the younger social set.

Mr. Pound is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Jere M. Pound, of Athens, and is a brother of Murphy Pound, of Columbus. His father, Dr. Jere Pound, is president of the Georgia State Teachers' College at Athens, and is one of the most prominent educators in the south. Mr. Pound is a graduate of the University of Georgia, where he was a member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity and is now a member of the Murphy Pound Contracting Company, of Columbus.

Studio Tea.

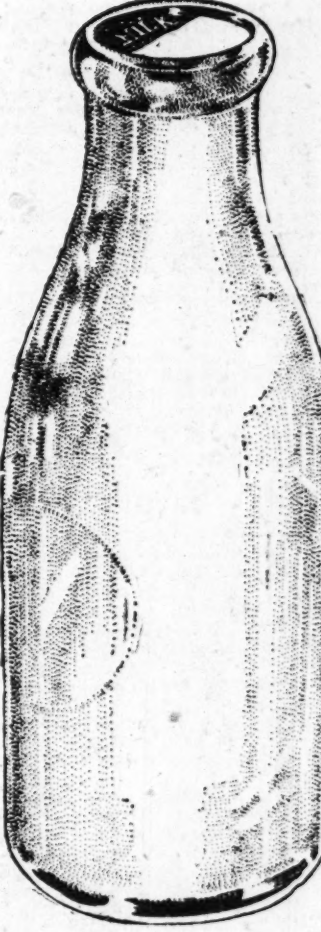

Members of the Studio Club entertained at an informal tea at the club rooms at 104 1-2 Forsyth street on Wednesday afternoon. This was the first of the teas to be given each Wednesday during the winter season. The group discussed the plans for the first play, Philip Barry's "Holiday," which is to be presented October 6 and 7 in the Atlanta Woman's Club auditorium. Mrs. Cyril Smith, wife of the president of the Studio Club, poured tea. She was assisted by Mrs. Florence Brine in serving the guests.

7:30 o'clock at Y. W. C. A. building, Auburn avenue.

Hapeville Chapter No. 179, O. E. S., meets this evening at 8 o'clock in the Hapeville Masonic hall.

Pedigree Milk for demonstrations in
Davison-Paxon's
Tea Room

who conducts the school, is one of America's leading authorities in the culinary arts. A wealth of information in the modern science of planning and preparing menus will be yours to enjoy at her free demonstration at the Davison-Paxon Tea Room—today, tomorrow and Friday of this week.

At the free Cooking School sessions being sponsored by The Atlanta Constitution and Kelvinator in the Davison-Paxon Tea Room this week—Pedigree Milk is the feature of the demonstrations. Only the highest quality milk could be considered, and in making a selection for the new and modern recipes and menus, Pedigree Milk was found to best fulfill Miss Sawyer's demands. Pedigree Milk is produced in accord with the most exacting sanitary specifications—which include careful and proper feeding of cows and modern methods of bottling.

Kotex

DON'T be confused by the careless expression, "just like Kotex." Perhaps the substitute looks the same. But demand to know more. Where was this substitute made? By whom? How? Who stands back of it? Is it hygienically safe... the kind of sanitary pad a hospital would select? Last year more than 10,000,000 Kotex pads were used in hospitals. This is the pad that meets hospital requirements! You should be equally strict in selecting an access-

Dr. and Mrs. Bivings To Present Miss Helen Bivings Friday, Nov. 20

Dr. and Mrs. William Troy Bivings have chosen Friday, November 20, as the date when they will formally present their debutante daughter, Miss Helen Bivings, to Atlanta society. This affair will be a brilliant supper-dance which will take place at the Piedmont Driving Club. This date was selected because November 21 is the anniversary of Miss Bivings' birthday and it will be in the nature of a birthday celebration. Miss Betty Timmons, who is at present in Kansas, is a cousin of Miss Bivings and plans to return to Atlanta to join the debutante coterie. She will be present at this party.

Miss Bivings, who is a decided brunette, has enjoyed wide popularity among the younger contingent since her early school days. She is a graduate of Washington Seminary and a member of the Pi Pi Club and the Colony Club. She continued her education at the Castle-on-the-Hudson, Tarrytown, N. Y., and later attended Oglethorpe University. During the past summer she toured Europe with a congenial party of young ladies.

Debutantes Disregard Superstition To Stage Fashion Show Friday, Nov. 13

That old superstitions hold no terror for members of the 1931-32 Debutante Club was proven at the meeting of this organization, which was held yesterday afternoon at the Piedmont Driving Club, when they chose Friday, November 13, as the date for the brilliant Fashion Review they will stage for charity. This event will be one of the outstanding affairs of the fall season because of the grace and charm of the mannikins as well as the gorgeous clothes which will be exhibited. Miss Ida Nevin, president, who presided, announced that several offers have been made for ballrooms where the show may be given, but no decision was reached, and it has not yet been decided what store will furnish the beautiful costumes. Tickets will be $2.

Debutantes to Model.

Miss Nevin announced an offer from J. P. Allen Company for eight debutantes to model at that store once a week beginning Monday from 10 to 11 o'clock. The proceeds from this activity will go to the charity they decide to sponsor. A different group of girls will serve each week and on Monday they will include Misses Ida Nevin, Anne Wynne Fleming, Louise Moore, Elizabeth Thompson, Peggy Underwood, Helen Bivings, Jane Sharp, Helen Smith, Catherine Flagler, Jaquelin Moore and Sara Sharp.

The next meeting will be held Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Officers' Club at Fort McPherson. When two speakers will be heard on charities which they invite the club to sponsor and other business will be transacted.

Program to be rendered in a Succoth, which has been specially constructed for the feast, tabernacle.

JACKET TACKLE HURT; COACHES FEAR FRACTURE

Brady, Promising Youngster, Injured; Ferguson Stars in Scrimmage.

The Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets had one of their longest scrimmages of the year yesterday afternoon at the Rose Bowl and one casualty cropped out that may result in something more serious than the average hard knock.

Brady, promising young tackle who has been showing up well, suffered a possible fracture of the left hand. The injured member will be placed under X-ray today. It is thought that he will be out for some time.

Brady joins Warner, young guard, who also is on the inactive list due to injury.

All the other ailing members of the Tech team were in harness yesterday following application of some of Mike Chambers' magic home remedies. These included Pat Barron, halfback, who suffered a charley-horse Tuesday.

The brilliant work of Ferguson, sophomore halfback, featured yesterday's scrimmage. The elusive youngster was all over the field, crashing through once for 45 yards and a touchdown. The blocking ahead of Ferguson was by far the best shown by the Jackets today. He gained considerably against Mack Tharp's Grey Devils.

Coach Alex sent the boys back to regulation uniforms for the rough work yesterday, discarding the suits. After an hour's warming up on fundamentals, kicking, passing and blocking, the Jackets went to it.

They work again today and another scrimmage is booked for Saturday. Tech has but one more week after the present to prepare for the game with South Carolina here October 3.

The advance ticket sale for the game is reported to be picking up considerably.

Bobby Dodd, the Tech backfield coach, will resume his duties today after an operation.

Notre Dame Preps Lose to G.M.A., 19-0

Chattanooga Beaten in Last Period by Cacst Rally at Spiller's After Hard Battle.

By Roy White.

A fighting Notre Dame Academy eleven from Chattanooga, Tenn., that held its own for three quarters, gave way to a much heavier G. M. A. team in the fourth quarter and was defeated, 19 to 0, by G. M. A. Thursday night at Spiller field. The plucky little team from Chattanooga with only five reserves on its bench, gave all it had through three periods but was forced to bow in the last quarter. The Chattanoogaans held G. M. A. to eight first downs, four of which came in the closing chapter.

Outweighing the Chattanooga eleven by several pounds to the man, G. M. A. started slow and increased its momentum as the game progressed. A 13-yard pass from Chase to Galvin and a neat buck of nine yards was the only scoring threat for G. M. A. in the first period. Hoyak ran off tackle for 14 yards early in the second period to give G. M. A. its second first down.

FIRST REAL BID. G. M. A. made its first real bid to score in the third period but the Notre Dame boys held for down on their own two-yard line and immediately punted out of danger. It was a gallant fight the visitors put up in the shadow of their goal.

In the fourth period, Hoyak, on a neat off tackle play behind some excellent interference, gained 25 yards. Another series of plays placed the ball on the seven-yard line and Pendleton bucked it across, for the first score. A few moments later Hoyak scored another after McCay had made a gain of 14 yards. The final touch-down came late in the game on a 17-yard dash by McCay.

Chase, of G. M. A., and Stratton, of Notre Dame prep, engaged one of the best punting duels seen in prep circles. They averaged well over 40 yards.

PETRELS GIVEN KICK-OFF DRILL

BY ROBERTSON

Coach Uncertain Whether Anderson or Putno Will Start Saturday.

By Jack Troy. Definitely flying the red flag of gridiron communism, following their disappointing showing against the freshmen in a surprise midweek scrimmage, Oglethorpe's Petrels, with a philosophical shrug of their collective shoulders, yesterday settled down in the next-to-last workout to intensive preparations for the projected overthrow here Saturday of the four-year regime of the Chattanooga Moccasins.

The session was devoted largely to practice on the kick-off, both receiving and kicking, with a signal drill as the concluding item. Three full teams were running.

Andy Morrow, center, and Lefty Syper, halfback, alternated in kicking duties, showing good distance. Morrow, however, is expected to perform in this role against the Moccasins Saturday.

JOHN OR FRANK? A perplexing problem has arisen as the big game nears. It concerns the fourth member of the starting backfield. The question is: Will John Putno and Frank Anderson Jr. receive the opening call?

Yesterday Coach Robertson used Claude Herrin at quarterback, Lefty Syper and Dapper Myers at halfbacks, and John Putno at fullback. This is a backfield unit selected to start earlier in the week.

But a very important matter of punting and passing arises. None of the above quartet can kick, and only Herrin passes with any degree of accuracy. Frank Anderson, however, is a triple-threat back, and his punning and passing very probably would aid the Petrel cause.

SOPH STAR KICKER. Coach Robertson has had Charley George, sophomore end, practicing for two weeks in dropping back and punting. George is one of the best kickers on the squad, incidentally. Asked yesterday if he favored an end dropping back to kick, Coach Robertson replied: "Yes, sir, if the end is the only man on the team who can punt."

And there you are. About as definite as the coming of cooler weather. Herrin, Syper, Myers and Putno posed as a backfield unit for the photographers yesterday, but Anderson was chosen to toss passes to Captain Parker Bryant for the picture boys. It's all very uncertain. But one thing is sure. The backfield will not suffer whichever move Coach Robertson makes.

WIND UP TODAY. Today the petrel Petrels will wind up their training with the Moccasins with a long signal practice. Kenneth (Natty) Campbell, backfield coach, continued his scouting duties yesterday, departing for Morgantown, W. Va., where he will look over Duquesne in the game with University of West Virginia. Duquesne is the opponent of the Petrels next Friday night at Pittsburgh in the first of a group of intersectional combats.

The game with West Virginia is the second for the Pittsburgh eleven, they having defeated Geneva, 13 to 7, last week.

Moccasins Leave Today for Game. CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 24. Coach Scarpay Moore, his assistants, Trainer O'Brien and several tons of Moccasins will clamber aboard a rattier tomorrow afternoon for Atlanta where Saturday the several tons of gridirers will attempt to continue the domination of Oglethorpe.

For the last four years the Stormy Petrels have stormed into Chattanooga, usually as the favorite and always as the victor. Right back with their ears beaten off. The Moccasins have always opened up with unexpected power to vanquish the old rivals.

However, the scene shifts this year. The Blue and Gold is a new team, playing under a new head coach, going into the camp of the enemy in place of fighting the birds in their own backyard, and it is the first real game of the season.

MATERIAL GREEN. Heretofore the Petrels have been battered on Thanksgiving when the Moccasins had reached their peak. This year, with green material in many positions, it will take time to bring the boys to their top strength.

Accordingly, it looks like a rough and tumble affair down there Saturday, and one man's guess as good as another's.

Only Hines and Monroe, backs, are unable to play Saturday. They will make the trip, but won't be in uniform. The entire squad will be taken. Pop Keyser, who has been recovering from a broken ankle, is ready to start. He couldn't get in against the teachers last week.

SOPHS PLENTIFUL. Most of Coach Drew's great team of last year graduated, and sophomores will be plentiful in the lineup Saturday. Charlie White will open at one end, and either Jim Haley or Lou Ellis at the other. All three re sophomores, Merritt, a soph, and Holden, a senior, will be the tackles. Kosik, soph, and Nardo will be at guard. This Nardo looks like an all-conference lineman. Art Koeninger, a veteran, is at center.

THE SPORT-LIGHT

By Shantland Rice

The Sporting Boon.

There may have been what is technically known as a slight kink in other trades and industries, but no such slump has affected sports. At least, not as yet.

After the two pennant races were tucked away, tremendous crowds were flocked to certain parks and certain ball games, a notable instance being the Giant-Yankee affair, and then the Giant-Yankee-Dodger party. Jack Dempsey has passed far beyond the 100,000 attendance mark in a few exhibition bouts and when Burke and Von Elm were winning from Jones and Quimet the crowd was so large that you could hardly see Essex county.

Boxing hasn't done any too well, because most of the fights were not worth looking at, something the paying clients knew in advance. Yet Loughran and Sekyra packed them in. In Philadelphia the application for world series tickets has reached the 100,000 mark. It is understood that St. Louis, with Grege and Earnshaw facing Derringer, Grimes and Halahan, this series could break all records if there were room enough to park the crowds.

When it comes to football, let any one try to get a ticket for the Army-Notre Dame game. It is understood that Soldier field is already sold out for the Notre Dame-Northwestern game, where well over 100,000 will be present. The most important contests of the year between two of the season's greatest teams.

Rival Consistency. Is it possible that leading women golfers play nearer to consistent form than men can play. It begins to look just that when you examine the records and files of the two amateur championships.

The men's amateur championship at Chicago was very looked with upsets. Such stars as Doc Willing, Phil Perkins, Lawson Little, Jimmy Johnston and others failed to qualify and another all-time record was passed in the first round.

From this, move around to the affair at Buffalo, now going on. The eight leaders listed in advance included Glenn Collett, Vane, Emil Wilson, Helen Hicks, Maureen Orcutt, Virginia Van Wie, Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Pressler and Marion Hollins. Six of these were still left when the quarter-finals were played yesterday.

They comprised six of the eight survivors, which is a remarkable record when you consider the strange inconsistencies of golf.

While this was taking place Burke and Von Elm were beating Jones and Quimet, 8 and 7, a margin few believed possible. The leading women golfers have been running true to form for a year and they have continued their remarkable average at Buffalo, where the most interesting competitions of the season comes to an end on Saturday.

Locating Quarterbacks. The always difficult job of locating quarterbacks is beginning to work out in better shape. Despite figures the Green may have a find in Fishman, a fast, smart entry who will also be a dangerous ball carrier.

Notre Dame is now banking largely on Murphy, who is giving more promise every day. Yale may find her quarterback in Bob Parker, a football player who can handle almost any assignment passed his way. Yale will need a good man to have anything like an even chance against Georgia, a veteran team driven by Downs, one of the best quarterbacks of the year.

Harvard has nothing to worry about with Barry Wood in harness, for here also is a football player. Cornell is well set and Columbia has one of the best in Ralph Hewitt, an all-around star. N. Y. U. and Fordham are not complaining, so things are beginning to look up, which is all right as long as football isn't golf.

Two Battle Lines. Reports from our scouts indicate that no two teams in the country are working as hard as Notre Dame and Northwestern for their big meeting at Chicago on October 10. This game will draw over 100,000 people, with practically every seat sold now. Last fall this game, Notre Dame-Northwestern meeting was one of the big contests of the year—probably the most important. It was also a smashing, crushing game all the way through.

Neither Hunk Anderson nor Dick Hanley has had any great amount of time to prepare for this next meeting, with each figure to be his hardest game, or at least the one game that may make or break a season. Anderson and Hanley have been driving their squads with feverish activity. And as the two teams understand the importance of this contest, every player on each field is giving all he has in the way of final preparation.

It isn't often a game of this importance comes so early, as it just has. The two teams have to rush their preparations to this extent. Just what effect this early conditioning will have on hard games later on is something to be taken into consideration.

It isn't easy to gear a team up by October 10 and keep it geared up through late November. As a rule something is bound to happen if not to break when this early rush has to be forced.

Sandlot Grid League Holds Meet Tonight

The Sandlot Football League of the Rotary Club will start its second season Saturday, October 3. This league is open to any boys' team in the city that meets the requirements listed below.

There will be two divisions in the league, one for boys weighing 120 pounds and under, and another for boys weighing 135 pounds and under. Boys in the 120-pound league must attend junior high school, while boys in the 135-pound league may be in their first year of high school or in junior high. Players in either league must not be on a high school football team or be experienced in high school football in the past.

There will be a meeting of the league at the Y. M. C. A. tonight at 7:30. There is only one berth left in the 135-pound division and two in the 120-pound division. Any team desiring to enter should send Trammell Scott or call J. L. Cook at Hemlock 9238-J.

MEHRE GROANS AS 13 REGULARS JOIN SICK LIST

Injuries, While Not Serious, Hamper Preparations for Gobbler Tilt.

By Al Smith.

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 24.—Harry Mehre stood on Sanford field in the gathering dusk of a late September afternoon with a tired expression in his eyes and a worried look on his face, and gazed despondently at a small group of football players trudging wearily up the hill.

Thirteen regulars reported on the sick list this afternoon. The remainder of Mehre's 40-bod football players were scrimmaged like washermen against 11 eager but callow freshmen. The opening game is nine days off, and his first team is shot to pieces with injuries and sickness. The second team he has counted on to deliver the goods can't even make headway against a freshman team, much less 10 of the strongest teams in the nation.

Jack (The Ripper) Roberts, one of the better fullbacks of the nation, leads the sick warriors with a case of tonsillitis which will keep him out until Monday at least, possibly longer. Then came Jodie, White with an injured shoulder, Spurgeon Chandler with a bad ankle, Vason McWhorter with a severe cold, and Tiger Bennett with a foot injury.

Other Bulldogs with injuries are:

DEAN AND HASTY, FAST BALL ACES, MEET ON MOUND

Both Teams Are Confident on Eve of Final Battle.

HOUSTON, Texas, Sept. 24.—(AP) Dizzy Dean and Bob Hasty will be opposing pitchers in the seventh and deciding game of the Dixie series here tomorrow night.

The Birmingham and Houston teams arrived here shortly after 8 o'clock tonight, travel-worn, but confident. The Barons, after a 23-hit splurge that called out every pitcher on the Houston staff, feel they can touch Dean for enough base knocks to take the Dixie title back to Birmingham.

"We're hitting now, and no pitcher can stop us," one of the Barons stars said.

On the other hand the Buffs are equally as confident that Dean, who has allowed the Barons but eight hits and nine runs in 18 innings, will hurt the Texas champions to victory.

It will be the first time that the Barons have had to face Dean under the arcs, and some of Dean's best pitching performances have been at night.

The deciding game of the series will have fast ball pitcher against fast ball pitcher. Hasty hurled a fine game the time he faced the Buffs, but had to be content with a 1-0-0 reversal as Payne limited Birmingham to a single hit.

THE GUMPS—COME BACK TO ME, SWEETHEART

WHITE FAWN
by Olive Higgins Reagans

INSTALLMENT XXIII.

Fabia arrived at dusk. There was a car parked in front of her grandmother's door, and, as she drew up behind it, her eyes fell upon its number. For a moment she sat perfectly still staring at it. It was the same number that had disappeared in the dark after Thad had been run over!

Without glancing behind her, Fabia ran up her grandmother's steps and rang the bell. The waiting car was vacant. It was clearly mirrored in one of the plate-glass panes of the bay-window beside her. Would he be inside the house waiting for her?

Her heart began beating violently as she waited for the door to be opened. Had he at last taken advantage of a man's prerogative, called up her house, and been told she was expected at her grandmother's this afternoon? Oh, had he, too, been wanting to see her? But there was no one inside the house waiting to see Fabia.

She didn't stop to take off her things. Her grandmother's sitting room was on the third floor, in the front of the house.

"Hello, grandmother," she said, from the threshold. "Hello, Aunt Charlotte. Yes, I'd love some tea. Whose car is that parked outside?"

"Charlotte," Grandmother Vale exclaimed, "there he is at it again. Call up the police immediately. That young fellow is getting to be an outrage."

"Has he left his car here before?" asked Fabia.

"He certainly has. I've had him tagged twice already."

"Why does he park his car here?"

"Because there's no parking space next door, sometimes. It's a nuisance living next to a doctor."

"Does a doctor live next door?"

"Yes, Dr. Warburton. He moved in in September. I didn't think a surgeon would have patients coming to his house—a surgeon of Dr. Warburton's importance. Anyway, he does, though, and this young assistant of his leaves that old tumble-down touring car of his, if not in front of my house, as near to it as possible, for hours on end. Here comes the tea. You'd better call up the police station before you pour it, Charlotte."

"Oh, do pour it first," said Fabia. "I'm famished. Did you ever meet the young assistant, grandmother?"

"No, and I don't want to, and I'm not likely to. Dr. Warburton told me all about him. Dr. Warburton is an old friend."

"Who is he?"

"Well, his name is Shehan. Or was it Regan? I forget. Patrick Shehan, I think. Anyway, something Irish that I suspect, why the Boston police didn't punish him when I had him tagged."

"How did Mr. Warburton know him?"

"Picked him up in the slums somewhere. Operated on his mother, or was it his brother, Charlotte, and got interested in him. Plain hot water for me today, Charlotte. When you're through, call the police station."

"Oh, please don't have her do it now," said Fabia.

"Why not?"

"Well, there's no hurry. You know whose car it is, and I can stay only a little while. I'm due at Rachel Witherow's tea at five-thirty. Let's not bother with the police now."

Twenty minutes later Fabia was about to step into her car when she heard steps behind her and turned around. Dan Regan stood before her.

"How does this happen?" he asked.

"What?"

"When I came out to get into my car, I found yours parked right behind it. I didn't think it could be yours until I looked at the initials. I've been waiting for you for half an hour."

"My grandmother lives here."

"Your grandmother lives here?"

"Yes, and you'd better move your car immediately. She is probably this minute telephoning to the police about it. You mustn't park in front of her house any more. She's old, and it makes her cross."

"I'll be more careful. Thanks for telling me. I couldn't think why your car was parked next to mine. I see now. I hoped—improbable, of course—but I hoped it was because you'd forgiven me."

"Forgive you for what?" said Fabia.

"Well, I don't know which of my offenses is the worst," was Dan Regan's reply.

For a moment they looked at each other straight in the eyes. There was an air-right not very far away. Each was aware of the other's searching gaze. Fabia looked away first.

"Well, I must be going."

"Wait just a minute. Did you receive a puppy about two weeks ago?"

"Did you send him?"

"Yes. Did you keep him?"

"Yes."

"Then you have forgiven me! You've sent him back to the kennels if you hadn't."

"But I didn't know who sent him." Her voice was very kind.

"Look here," exclaimed Dan. "Where can we go and talk a little while?"

"We can't go anywhere now. I'm on my way to a tea."

"How about after the tea?"

"I don't know of any place to meet you."

"Then I'll follow you in my car, and when you come out from your tea I'll find a place."

"All right," said Fabia, and got into her car. She had a question she wanted to ask him. She would do so, and then never see him again.

When she came out from the tea she found him waiting for her.

"Here I am," he smiled. "I've left my car around the corner. We can talk there best, I think."

Fabia followed him without a word of dissent. He slipped into the seat beside her, and closed the door. They were shut away in a sort of cococonic interior, sealed and hidden from the world.

"It's splendid of you to do this," said Dan. "To trust me like this after what I did last time."

"Well, I had a question I wanted to ask you."

"What is it?"

"Well, I wanted to know—"

She stopped. After all it wasn't going to be so easy. "I've been thinking about . . ."

"Again she stopped."

"So have I," said Dan. "I guess we've been thinking about the same thing, haven't we?"

"I don't know."

"Ask your question."

"Well, I want to know if the second time you were just trying to be polite," she brought out.

"To be polite?"

"Yes—to make up for being profuse."

"Good Lord, no! I was just being uncontrolled, instinctive—a brute. I suppose. I don't know what happened to me exactly. You made me mad about that money first, and then—then—I thought at first you'd fainted. Do you despise me for it? Have you forgiven me?"

"I guess I must have."

"Have you thought of it much since?"

"I'm afraid so."

"So have I—constantly—constantly—over and over again—and longed to see you."

Fabia made no reply. They sat in silence a moment, then Dan reached out his hand and laid it palm up in Fabia's lap. She laid hers in it. She was in the grip of forces she had never even tried to restrain before. Dan grasped her hand tightly.

"You are the only girl I ever kissed like that," he said solemnly.

"You're the only man who ever kissed me like that," she replied as solemnly.

"Will you let me again?"

"Not tonight. Not now."

"Yes, tonight. Please. Here now." Dan urged. "Oh, it will never be. I can't keep on seeing you. I don't belong in your world. Perhaps I'll never see you again—not alone, anyway—like this. Please."

ANNIE?

WHY, IT'S WONDERFUL—
I WAS SCARED
YOU'D GO AN'
GET A BIG CASTLE OR SOMETHIN'—

NOPE—IN SPITE OF RICHES,
ANNIE, I'LL NEVER BE A FINE
LADY—I'M STILL JUST OLD MAW
GREEN, AND I KNOW IT—
SOCIETY! BAH! WHAT'S IN IT
FOR THE LIKES O' ME? I PREFER
THE SOCIETY OF A GOOD DOG,
AND MAYBE OF A LOT OF MONEY-
WORSHIPPERS THAT'D SMIRK IN MY FACE AND SNEER AT MY BACK—I'LL HAVE CONTENTMENT—
THAT'S MORE THAN LOTS OF RICH FOLKS—

AT LAST!

YES, DEAR, AND
GET A TAXI QUICK
I WANT TO SEE
EDINBURGH CASTLE
THE EIFFEL TOWER
AND THE LEANING
TOWER OF PISA!

I DON'T SEE WHY A SWELL GIRL
LIKE YOU SHOULD WORK IN AN OFFICE!! YOU'RE TOO BEAUTIFUL TO WASTE YOUR TIME BEING A STENOGRAPHER!!

OH, YEAH?

YOU'VE GOT GORGEOUS HAIR
AND I LOVE YOUR BEAUTIFUL
BLUE EYES!! YOUR TEETH ARE LIKE PEARLS AND—

AHEM—ER—
DID I GET YOUR ORDER?

MR. BIBBS, I DON'T LIKE
THE IDEA OF SELLING ONE CASE OF PINS AND THEN
FOR THE REST OF THE DAY
HAVE TO LISTEN TO THE WISE GUY CUSTOMER HAND
ME HIS LINE OF BALONEY!

YOU'RE RIGHT,
MISS
I DON'T LIKE IT EITHER!

THE LEAST HE COULD DO IS BUY THREE CASES OF PINS!!

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN.
CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—(P)—Break in Wall Street securities threw wet blanket on grain prices today and more than overcame bullish effects of trans-Pacific war tension.

Announcement from Washington that the department of agriculture was investigating economic possibilities regarding legalization of beer flat as a market influence, and said later word that the American Legion national convention at D troit had voted heavily for repeal of change of prohibition laws. Delinquencies on September corn contracts kept heavy.

Wheat closed nervous at about Friday's lowest level, 1-2 to 7-8 cents cheaper, corn 3-8 to 7-8 down, oats 1-4 to 1-2 down.

Provisions averaged lower with hogs and grain, lard touching new bottom records.
